KING ABDICATES; GREEKS REVOLT

REPORT GREEK ARMY MOBILIZES

Geneva, Sept. 1.—Mutiny has broken out in the Greek army, according to reports received here today. There have also been revolutionary outbreaks in Greek Macedonia.

London, Sept. 1.—King Constantine of Greece has abdicated, according to the British official press representative at Salonica.

A Reuter dispatch from Salonica also announces the abdication of the King, and states that the general mobilization of the Greek army has been ordered. Crown Prince George has been appointed regent and former Premier Venizelos is giving his support to the ministry, the dispatch adds.

The text of the Reuter dispatch follows:

"Sensational news has just been received here from Athens, but pending its official confirmation must be mentioned with reserve. It is stated that King Constantine has abdicated and that the Crown Prince has been appointed regent. Premier Zaimis remains at the head of the Cabinet and is receiving the support of Fleutherios Venizelos. General mobilization of the Greek army has once more been ordered."

Following the recent flight of King Constantine it was reported that troops of the allied powers were on their way to Athens, and it is expected that they will take over the Greek government.

43,000 GERMANS TAKEN BY FRENCH

By International News Service.

Paris, Sept. 1.—More than 43,000 unwounded Germans have been taken prisoners by the French at Verdun and on the Somme front, according to the military expert of the Echo De Paris. The total German losses at Verdun are placed at 500,000. Letters taken from German prisoners indicate great demoralization among the troops.

Auto Bandits Get $5,000 in Jewels on Detroit Road

By International News Service.

Detroit, Sept. 1.—Auto bandits today got $5,000 in diamonds by holding up an auto on the Seven Mile road and robbing a woman while her companion, S. Dupont, was repairing a tire. The robbery was made by five men, three of them covering the occupants of the car while the other two took the jewels. The robbers escaped.

"That makes one of my fondest dreams come true," he said as he affixed his signature.

MAYOR FOR DELAYING SCHOOL

Guarding Against the Dangers of Infantile Paralysis, He Orders a Conference of School Chiefs

Following the stand of the Boston AMERICAN, Mayor Curley today took steps to consider the advisability of postponing from September 11 to October 1 the opening of Boston's schools, on account of the epidemic of infantile paralysis.

The Mayor directed the Health Commissioner Dr. Francis X. Mahoney, to call a conference of the school committee and health department to debate the question. The Mayor said today:

"While I personally am in favor of not opening the schools yet awhile, I am loath to override the opinions of the health authorities and the school committee. Boston's school children have the constant care of forty doctors and forty nurses, besides being under the continuous watch of the health department visitors.

"Boston schools are far better protected against an outbreak of disease than echo-ing in almost any other city in the country."

Following is Mayor Curley's letter to Dr. Mahoney:

The necessity of safeguarding the health of the school children is such that, in my opinion, it would be advisable for you to arrange a conference at once with the School Committee, for the purpose of considering the advisability of postponing the time of opening the school season from the date determined upon, September 11, to October 1.

I am fully aware that there is slight cause for uneasiness, since the number of cases of anterior poliomyelitis in this year no greater or in Boston than it has been in some previous years, and it is just possible that the school committee and yourself may deem it advisable to have the schools open in September as a better means of providing direct supervision of the children through the school medical inspection forces.

However, it is a question that should be determined upon at the earliest possible day, and I trust that you will give it immediate consideration.

FIND GIRLS WHO FLED INQUIRY

Sent From New York to Escape Testifying in Vice Investigation, They Are Located in Raid

Following last night's sensational raid on a gay party at No. 43 Dwight street, where men in dress suits and women in evening gowns were surprised by the officers, New York officials today visited the South End again and located a number of new men and women in connection with their white slave investigation.

Assistant District Attorney James E. Smith of New York came to Boston for the purpose. He brought detectives with him and thirteen warrants.

Thus far in Boston one man has been arrested, two others detained and five women detained. Three not arrested have agreed to go back to New York as witnesses.

Joseph L. Schick of No. 339 South Second street, Brooklyn, is the man under arrest. A woman known as his wife was located today at the Dwight street house.

SEARCH GOES ON.

Detectives continued their search in the South End for other persons wanted throughout the day.

Assistant District Attorney Smith of New York said:

"We have eight people in all, only one arrested. The others are willing to return to New York and testify. They will tell of the white slave traffic, and also of a slush fund used in connection with police activities.

"We have warrants for others, but expect they will come without demanding that they be put under arrest.

"We got the wife of Schick this morning. She is twenty-five. Then there are some men in Howard street

Russians Report 15,000 Prisoners Taken Yesterday

By International News Service.

Petrograd, Sept. 1.—Violent fighting between Austro-German and Russian forces raged throughout Thursday. In these battles the Russians captured 288 officers and 15,301 men, the War Office announced today.

The text of the official report follows:

"In battles on Thursday we captured a total of 288 officers, 15,301 men (including 240 Germans), six guns, fifty-five machine guns and seven bomb throwers."

"Major-General Nikitin has been killed near Baranovitchi.

"Near Vladimir Volynski, in the direction of Lopuchi, the enemy is making fierce attacks.

"In the direction of Halicz (Galicia) and in the region of Horozanka River, there is furious fighting.

"In the Carpathians mountain heights have been captured in the region of Tomnatic.

"Caucasus front—Turkish attacks have been repulsed on the Gumish-khaneh-Erzingan line and also west ward of Ognot, where four Turkish regiments broke through our lines and captured some of our artillery. A Turkestan regiment drove back the enemy and we regained the lost ground and also our lost artillery. North of the Euphrates river, Turkish forces were put to flight."

HELD FOR DEATH OF WIFE IN LAWRENCE

Lawrence, Sept. 1.—Waiving examination on a charge of murdering his wife, Lizzie, Michael Manning, who was arraigned in the district court today, was bound over to the Grand Jury and held without bail. Manning's wife was found dead in bed with her throat cut ten days ago at the family home, No. 9 Melvin court.

Manning was taken into custody and held pending further investigation. The following day a murder charge was lodged against him.

BULGARIA DECLARES WAR UPON RUMANIA

London, Sept. 1.—A Reuter dispatch from Salonica says Bulgaria has declared war on Rumania.

GREAT POWER IN NEW R. R. MEASURE

Washington, Sept. 1.—The eight-hour bill, designed to avert a railroad strike, was reported in both houses of Congress today, and debate on the measure was started at once.

The House received the bill practically in its original form, but that reported to the Senate was amended to contain sweeping powers for the Interstate Commerce Commission.

These included the authority to fix hours and wages for railroad employes, and to change them on petition of the roads, the employes or the public.

Every indication was that the House bill would be passed at roll call, scheduled for 4:30, in spite of a stormy debate.

In the Senate, although the Republicans after a conference decided not to delay a vote on the eight-hour bill after tomorrow noon, and not to frame a substitute measure, certain of the more conservative Republicans declared their intention of fighting for some recompense for the railroads in case the eight-hour day was granted, and trouble is looked for.

Discussion of several minor bills in the Senate when it reconvened at 1 o'clock, blocked immediate consideration of the eight-hour bill. Senator Jones of Washington insisted what threatened to be an extended discussion of civil service reform.

The amendment to the Senate bill was moved by Senator Underwood, and the measure as finally reported provided:

An eight-hour day, at the present day wages.

Investigation of the effect of the eight-hour day by a commission of three to be named by the President and to report to the President and Congress.

Complete authority for the Interstate Commerce Commission to fix all rates on wages and hours of service on the railroads involved, but continuing the eight-hour day provision for not less than six months.

The committee eliminated the provision which would direct the commission to consider the eight-

FOOD PRICES IN BOSTON GO SOARING

The prices of food in Boston continue to soar, because of the persistence of the strike rumors, in spite of the repeated assurances that there is no danger of a shortage.

Practically every commodity in the food market has risen in price with potatoes leading in the upward climb.

Real speculation has broken out in the Boston potato market and the wholesale price has advanced again, with the present price at $3 for a two bushel bag, an increase of one dollar over the price at the beginning of the week.

Should there be a strike a shortage of potatoes would be expected. Boston depends largely upon Maine for this vegetable, and Aroostook County, where the bulk of the crop is raised, is far removed from the water route.

Other staples that have advanced are flour and beef. The first commodity is selling at $10.25 a barrel, and beef varies in price from eighteen cents up to forty-eight cents a pound for rump steak.

Lamb felt the influence of the strike rumors and in a few hours jumped from 24 to 30 cents a pound. Hamburg steak is selling at 15 and 18

NEW LAW WILL REDUCE SERVICE, ELLIOTT SAYS.

New York, Sept. 1.—"There is not enough transportation being furnished for the present and future needs of the country, and in my opinion the plan of settlement suggested in Washington will reduce the ability of the railroads to furnish the transportation needed by the American people, and the public who are necessarily and vitally interested," said President Howard Elliott of the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R., who has just returned from Washington.

we are going to get, and we are looking for others whose names we have.

"Some of my men went to Providence today, and more recruits, at least, will be looked in that. The police there are cooperating.

"I intend to see the district attorney here and discuss the situation. So far these are all strictly New York cases, and the people we are taking here are for the most part well attended."

ARREST OF SCHICK.

The arrest of Schick was brought about as a result of a tip given to Assistant District Attorney Smith. He came here with several New York detectives and conferred with District Attorney Pelletier. After the conference, which ended at midnight, Smith went with Police Inspectors James Colomb, Arthur Egan, George Patterson, James Claffie, Michael Cronin and Benjamin Alexander to the East Dedham street address.

After a conference with Sergeant Carey and other officers the New York officials went in an automobile to the Dwight street house, followed by a squad of officers. All met at the corner of the street and Sergeant Carey posted men at different points. Some were sent to the rear of the house. Others went to the roof of adjoining houses to cut off escape that way if any persons tried to get away.

CLINK OF GLASSES.

At a given signal several officers entered the house through a basement. Several went in through the street door and at once began a search of the house. Laughter and clinking of glasses coming from the top floor arrested the attention of the officers. Hurrying thither they entered a spacious room and found a gay dinner party of men and women. The appearance of the officers caused considerable commotion. Assistant District Attorney Smith of New York recognized many of the women and told them about the object of the visit. The men, according to the police, tried to get away by hurrying through doors leading to adjoining rooms, but were stopped by a command to stay where they were.

Three girls who gave their names as Sadie Chink, Dora Block, Jennie Factory, and one other were questioned. They admitted being in New York recently, it is said. All agreed to go back to New York and testify at the hearing now going on there. Their testimony according to the police, will deal with "hush money" given to police officials in New York city.

CROWD WATCHES RAID.

While the police were in the house crowds gathered on the street corners in that section. The street was alive with people. The news of the raid traveled fast through the South End. Nobody, apparently, knew what it was all about, however.

Following the raid, Assistant District Attorney Smith and the detectives from New York and Boston went to police headquarters in Pemberton square. There the New York prosecutor met the newspaper men and told them of the raid. He said:

I expect to visit another Eastern city today. We expect to arrest persons for whom we have warrants in connection with the New York white slave case. After that we are to return to Boston and continue our search for others who are wanted.

WEARS COSTLY DIAMONDS.

At the Dwight street house I recognized Mrs. Morris Bornstein, Mrs. Garfield, another woman, whose name I do not recall. In 1913 I convicted the Bornstein woman for running a disorderly house at No. 325 East Ninth street, New York. I might add that Mrs. Bornstein wore costly diamonds at the Dwight street house.

The girls with the old names are well known in New York. They are under observation and declared their intention to return to New York and testify at the graft and white slave hearing.

WAR SUMMARY

Bulgaria has declared war on Rumania, according to official dispatches from Salonica by way of London today.

This action is chiefly significant as casting doubt upon the report that Bulgaria will shift to the allied cause. That report may yet prove true, but it is considerably less probable now that Rumania and Bulgaria have begun hostilities.

The declaration of war itself had been discounted. Its failure to develop would have been more surprising and important than the actual declaration.

According to Salonica reports, King Constantine of Greece has abdicated. This, if true, undoubtedly means that Greece will join the allies. It may well be true, for the allies have thrown more and more troops into Greek territory, overawing any who opposed the allied cause and lending strength to the Venizelos party.

The Austrians continue to withdraw before the Rumanians in Transylvania, falling back in the mountains northeast of Kronstadt. There does not appear to have been much actual fighting, except at a point north of the Iron Gates of the Danube, where Rumanian efforts failed. One of the Austrian arsenals and munition factories is located in this locality and will hardly be given up without a struggle.

The Russians are crossing Rumania to strike at Bulgaria, and the Rumanian occupation of Rustchuk, the Bulgarian city, has been unofficially reported. This report is open to question, for Rustchuk is strongly fortified and an important strategic point. It would not be likely to fall in a day.

RUSSIANS FIGHTING BULGARS

By International News Service.

Bucharest, Sept. 1.—With Rumanian and Russian troops attacking both the Austro-Hungarians and the Bulgarians, it was reported today that the Rumanian general staff is planning to throw an army across the Danube to attack the Teutonic forces in northern Serbia.

The steady advance of the Rumanian army continues in the Transylvanian Alps. All the Tarlung valley has been occupied in the district around Kronstadt (Brassov) and the important industrial centre of Petrosany has been seized.

Petrosany lies six miles inside the Hungarian frontier. It is 45 miles southwest of Hermannstadt.

The Rumanian losses have been very light. Their sudden stroke against the Austro-Hungarians was made with such vigor that they met with little resistance.

The Russian forces that crossed eastern Rumania have now arrived on the Bulgarian frontier, where violent fighting is developing along the Danube.

There is also severe fighting, with the Rumanians participating, in the extreme southern ranges of the Carpathians, where the Rumanian troops joined the Russians southwest of Kimpoulung. Further south a great battle is raging in the Carpathians around Kukul pass, near Zable, but only Russians are engaged against the Austro-German troops in that section.

Austrian monitors have shown another burst of activity on the Danube by bombarding Turnu Severin and several other towns. These small war craft are patrolling the river south from the Iron Gate in an evident effort to prevent the Rumanians from crossing into Serbia, where they would be in a position to menace the line of rail communication between Berlin and Constantinople.

LAWRENCE MAN'S DEATH A MYSTERY

By International News Service.

Lawrence, Sept. 1.—Whether Oscar E. Pippig was brutally murdered in a cell in the local county jail or whether he committed suicide is a question that the local police and county authorities are investigating today, following the finding of his body. There were marks on his forehead and a gash over one of his eyes. There is much speculation how he received the injuries.

The jail authorities believe he committed suicide by strangulation, but death from that cause is not indicated by discoloration in the face, as is usually the case.

GREEK KING QUITS HIS THRONE

nication, the fact that the allies' military censor allowed the dispatch to come through gave it a strong tinge of authenticity.

The Greek minister to England stated this afternoon that he had not received any news of the reported abdication of King Constantine and did not believe it had occurred.

The Greek government has been in troubled waters ever since the war began. Strong pressure was brought to bear upon Greece to compel the government to live up to its treaty of alliance with Serbia and a strong pro-ally party under leadership of former Premier Venizelos grew up. However, Constantine held out for neutrality.

The abdication of Constantine will probably result in the intervention of Greece in the war on the side of the allies.

Constantine was born in 1868. His wife, Queen Sophia, is a sister of Emperor William of Germany.

Constantine's Wife Is Kaiser's Sister.

King Constantine I. of Greece succeeded to the throne on the assassination of his father, King George I., in March, 1913. His mother, the Dowager Queen Olga was a daughter of the late Grand Duke Constantine Nicolaiuvitch of Russia, and a granddaughter of Czar Nicholas I. But King Constantine's wife, Queen Sophie, is a sister of the Emperor of Germany.

King Constantine's Russian mother and German wife have been continually in conflict, but the German interests of the royal wife, despite her own continual quarrels with her imperial brother, have been the dominating factor in King Constantine's policies.

AROUSED KAISER.

Early in the married life of King George and Queen Sophie, when he was Crown Prince, the Kaiser became bitterly angry because his sister, then Crown Princess, abjured Lutheranism and accepted the Orthodox Greek Church, to which her husband belonged.

When Prince George, King Constantine's eldest son, was seven years old, Greece became involved in war with Turkey. Ottoman forces invaded Greece in 1897, led by German officers which the Kaiser had loaned to the Porte. The Moslem advance was finally held up by an ultimatum from Czar Nicholas, who intervened in behalf of the land into which his granddaughter had wedded.

Hellenic hatred of the Kaiser deepened. Later Queen Sophie became reconciled to the Kaiser. When Constantine and Sophie, still Crown Prince and Princess, were practically exiled just before the Balkan war, Sophie took her children to Germany and Constantine planned to take a high command in Russia. But the rise of Venezelos brought Constantine's recall. The Balkan war enabled him to retrieve military disasters of 1897.

HARMONY RESTORED.

Sophie, who had been estranged from Constantine, returned from Berlin ready, at the suggestion of the Kaiser, for a reconciliation, which was effected.

Then Constantine ascended the throne in the Spring of 1913, with German influence more and more apparent. The Queen Dowager Olga, unable to agree with her daughter-in-law, finally returned to Russia. Her chief interest since then in Athens has been her love for her grandson, Crown Prince George.

But there have been constant Teutonic influences on the Crown Prince's life. When his mother, Queen Sophie, was back at Berlin from 1908 to 1911, during her estrangement from King Constantine, she took advantage of the opportunity to place Prince George in the German army.

TRAINED IN GERMANY.

He received a thorough training in the blue-blooded First Regiment of Foot Guards at Potsdam.

There is an old tradition in Greece that when a royal Constantine weds a Princess Sophie their son shall reign in Constantinople, or, in other words, revive the old Byzantine Empire. Prince George is the son of a royal Constantine of Greece and a Princess Sophie. Hence the popular belief, superstitious though it may be, that he may restore the "glory that was Greece."

French Artillery Active on Somme.

By CHARLES F. BERTELLI.

International News Service Staff Correspondent.

Paris, Sept. 1.—French artillery was active on the Somme front last night, particularly in the region of Estrees and Soyecourt, says the official communique issued by the War Office today.

The German positions were kept under a violent bombardment, indicating that the French were preparing to renew their infantry assaults in that district.

Estrees and Soyecourt are at the southern end of the Somme front.

The text of the official communique follows:

"On the Somme front there has been activity on the part of our artillery in the regions of Estrees and Soyecourt.

"Between the Oise and the Aisne we executed a surprise attack on the enemy's trenches in front of Vouvron and brought back some prisoners.

"In the Apremont forest a local attack by the Germans at Croix St. Jean was checked. East of Le Prairs wood our barrage fire made abortive a surprise attack, which had been prepared by the enemy.

"In spite of fog and heavy clouds on the greater part of the front, our aviators were particularly active. On the Somme front four German machines were brought down by machine gun fire at close range by Adjutant Dorne.

"The machines struck the earth near Manacourt. These made eight machines brought down by this pilot. Three other German machines were brought down south and southeast of Peronne. Two others were seen to fall badly damaged in the same region.

"In the Champagne an aviatik was seriously damaged in an aerial conflict and fell within the German lines north of Somme. Another enemy aviator, struck by our special anti-aircraft guns, was forced to descend northeast of Somme Suippis. The two aviators in the machine were made prisoners.

"Finally, near Ricquebourg, a German machine forced to descend within our lines was captured and its passengers made prisoners."

Germans Penetrate a British Trench

By International News Service.

London, Sept. 1.—Five powerful German attacks were delivered against the British lines between Ginchy and Highwood (Foreaux forest) on the Somme front last night.

On their fifth attack the Germans succeeded in penetrating an advanced trench on a small front, the War Office stated in its official communication today.

These assaults were delivered over a front of 3,000 yards and were pressed home with great violence.

The Germans lost heavily.

The official British report follows:

"Subsequent to his attack at Highwood, which was reported last night, the enemy made further counter-attacks yesterday and last night on a front of 3,000 yards between Ginchy and Highwood.

"The counter attacks were preceded by an intense bombardment, not only against that part of the front attacked, but on both sides of it. Considerable forces were employed and five attacks were made.

"Four of these were driven back with heavy losses to the enemy. In their fifth attack the Germans succeeded in penetrating our advanced trench line on a small frontage of two points.

"To the north we successfully engaged batteries east of Beurins and caused big explosions in that area. We liberated gas on the Ypres salient with satisfactory results."

BRITISH ADMIT TERRIFIC LOSSES IN WESTERN DRIVE

THE British have officially announced that their losses for the month of August were 4,711 officers and 123,234 men.

On August 4, they announced that their losses for the month of July were 7,084 officers. They did not state their losses in men for that month.

During August, on the basis of their official figures, they lost one officer to twenty-six men.

If their losses in July were in the same proportion, their losses in men for July were twenty-six times 7,084, or 184,184.

The total losses for the two months of the allied drive, by the British alone, were, then:

Officers, 11,759; men, 307,418.

Total 319,177.

The British have gained in that time about twenty square miles of territory from the Germans.

PLAN TAG DAY FOR BANGOR STRIKERS

Bangor, Me., Sept. 2.—The car strikers here today will hold a Tag Day for the benefit of their strike fund and big preparations have been made to make the affair a success.

They are conducting an active campaign, preaching a doctrine of "Keep of the Cars" in an effort to force the company to yield.

The company claims that it is running cars on a 75 per cent. basis. The men say it is less than that, and declare no cars at all are running at night, and that the public is not riding in the day cars.

The strikers hold parades frequently, and their fife and drum corps procession the other night attracted a cheering crowd of spectators.

LEIGHTON HOUSE ROW IN COURT

The Leighton House controversy, which has caused all Summer excitement at Winthrop Highlands, as a result of a bitter fight between the Board of Selectmen, many Summer residents, and the proprietors of the Summer hotel, over the granting of licenses, finally came up in court today when Mrs. Lena Green and her husband, Morris, appeared before Judge Barnes in the East Boston District Court on two counts of conducting the Leighton House without licenses.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Green pleaded not guilty to the charges. Their cases were continued until September 11. They were represented by Israel Harris.

COURTROOM CROWDED.

Chief of Police Ellsworth Burrill of Winthrop was the complainant. The prosecution was represented by Harry Orcutt, city solicitor of Winthrop.

The courtroom was crowded, both factions being well represented. Many prominent members of the Winthrop Highlands Association, together with many of the town officials, were present. They were summoned as witnesses against the Greens. Friends of the Greens were in the courtroom, too.

The license over which the trouble started have been refused three times by the Winthrop Selectmen, according to the Greens, simply because they cater to Jewish patronage at the Leighton House. They say that they have been discriminated against and intend to fight Chief of Police Burrill, the complainant in the case, and all the Summer residents who will come forward as witnesses against them.

In defiance of the authorities, who cautioned the Greens early in the Summer against opening and operating the hotel, Mr. and Mrs. Green, upon advice of counsel, have conducted the Leighton House all season as a "boarding" house.

So keen has been the feeling between the Jewish people and those fighting them that at one time earlier in the season a crowd surrounded the house, stones were thrown and windows broken.

When the Greens first made application to the Board of Selectmen for the proper license, the application was "tabled" without a hearing. Mrs. Green, according to her statement, was advised by the board clerk that the license would not be granted, and stated that the only reason known was "that the public did not require the hotel."

Green then visited the selectmen for information and alleges that he was told that a "Jewish hotel or "Kosher house" was not wanted in the Highlands section.

FIGHT DRAGGED OUT.

It was at this time, after he had spent $32,000 in purchasing the land and property and on improvements, that Green decided to fight the board with the aid of legal advice.

The fight dragged out all Summer until this week Chief Burrill obtained warrants against the Greens and brought them into court. The chief has a long array of witnesses whom he intends to put on the stand against the defendants.

Among the well known prospective witnesses are George C. Crowninshield, president of the Winthrop Highlands Association, together with many of the club members, G. Wallace Tibbetts, Harry Wood, Thomas Healey, Fred Sears, Charles H. Hargraves, building commissioner; Smith A. Mowry, member of the Board of Health; John J. McDonald and Benjamin Howatt, both police officers, and John C. Terry.

All these men have been summoned and were in the courtroom today.

BAY STATE TROOPS MAY RETURN SOON

Washington, Sept. 1.—Pressure was brought to bear upon Secretary Baker today to have a part, if not all, the Massachusetts troops now on the border sent home, if not now, certainly with the next detachment. Senator Weeks conferred with the Secretary and a little later Congressmen Tague, Phelan and Gallivan took the matter up with Mr. Baker.

The Congressmen urged that Bay State troops be ordered to their mobilization camps without delay, but the Secretary replied that this was now impracticable. He added, however, that some of the Massachusetts regiments will be included in the next order.

TEST UNION LAW IN COURT

In the Municipal Court today Judge Creed continued a test case on the complaint of Albert Buck, State industrial inspector, against the Western Union Telegraph Company until September 12. It was alleged that on July 24 the company caused the discharge of David Howell, one of the telegraphers, for having joined Local No. 4 of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union.

The complaint alleges that by force and intimidation the company prevented him from continuing in its employ. The company, through its counsel, Arthur Lord, pleaded not guilty and filed a motion that the complainant be ordered to file a bill of particulars. In court today Thomas W. Mansfield represented the State Board of Labor and Industry.

Last May the House of Representatives authorized the board to investigate the alleged discharge of ten telegraphers on the grounds that they were members of labor unions. This action was held to be in violation of Section 19, Chapter 514, Acts of 1909. This act states that it is unlawful to discharge any employe because he is a member of or has joined any labor union.

This case is being watched with great interest among labor union members, as it is to be in the nature of a test case.

MRS. HAMMOND FOR PLAGUE RELIEF

On the eve of her headdress ball, to be given tonight at the Oceanside Hotel at Magnolia and which promises to bring together one of the largest gatherings of fashionable summer folks ever in attendance at a costume affir, Mrs. John Hays Hammond today sent out the following appeal:

"Only prompt and infinite care will prevent the little ones from being permanently handicapped in the race of life.

"We have all given generously to the sufferers of Europe, and it is right that it should be so. But now comes this call from our own home people and from a class which cannot help themselves—the children of the poor.

"Years of patient treatment under wise doctors in good hospitals are needed to bring back to them some use of their little stiffened bodies.

"Many hundreds of braces are needed today in the big cities which have been swept by the awful scourge.

"The coming of cool weather and the decrease of new cases does not lessen this urgent need.

"Will you be one to send money to help your little fellow citizens?

"It may be to buy a brace or to pay for a scientific orthopedic treatment which makes that brace do its work of restoration.

"Please make your check payable to the fund trustees, Lee, Higginson & Co., Boston.

MOVES POSTOFFICE WHEN SHE MARRIES

Paterson, N. J., Sept. 1.—Has a postmistress the right to carry with her to her new home when she gets married a district postoffice, thereby saving herself a mile and a half journey, but inconveniencing all but 2 per cent of her patrons? This is a question asked of Postmaster-General Burleson by residents of West Paterson in a petition sent to Washington today.

The petition recites that Miss Henrietta Pin, the postmistress, recently became Mrs. John Craig, and that after taking up her residence, a mile and a half distant from the original location of the postoffice, moved the office to her new home. The petitioners want it back on its old location.

OPEN WEYMOUTH FAIR TOMORROW

At the Fair grounds at South Weymouth tomorrow the directors will open the fifty-second annual exhibition of the Weymouth Fair. The list of attractions include horse racing, motorcycle racing, firemen's muster, horse contest, auto parade, baseball, band concert and fireworks.

Governor McCall is expected to be present tomorrow and several candidates for State and national offices will be on hand to greet the voters of the South Shore.

Congressman Richard Olney, 2nd, offers a cup for the driver of the horse breaking the track record and the list of horses entered in the field events makes it probable that the old record will have to go.

HOLD BOSTON LIGHT EXERCISES SEPT. 25

The entire celebration of the 200th anniversary of the establishment of Boston Light, to be jointly run by the Boston Chamber of Commerce of Commerce and the Department of and the Department of Commerce of the Federal Government, has been postponed to September 25. It was originally intended to have two sets of celebrations, the first on September 14, the date upon which the light first flashed, and the second on the 25th, close study of the calendar and accounting for the changes from old style to new style time showed that the 25th was the true anniversary, and the change was made accordingly.

RESTORE SALARIES FOR POSTAL MEN

Postmaster Murray today announced that the salaries of forty-six postal collectors, which were reduced to $1,000 a year ago because the postoffice appropriation was curtailed, could now be restored to their old figures of $1,100 and $1,200.

Twelve New Infantile Paralysis Cases; Six of Them Are in Boston

Miss Marion E. Park, junior at Wellesley College, who is second member of her class to be stricken with infantile paralysis.

The State health authorities today reported twelve new cases of infantile paralysis, six of them in Boston. Eleven of the cases were reported today, and one, that of Marion Park of Reading, the Wellesley girl, was reported yesterday.

Her case made a total of 257 for August, or a total of 561 for July and August.

New cases reported today were the following:

Lynn—Mary Ditto, 55 Pleasant street.

Lowell—Andrew Notini, 84 Walker street; Dr. Patenaude.

Worcester—Louise Johnson, 50 Andover street.

Springfield—Florence Webber, 695 North street.

Pittsfield—Charles St. John, Brombach street.

Boston—Six cases.

Miss Park, twenty-year-old daughter of the senior member of the firm of Park & Pollard, poultry supply dealers, living at No. 53 Federal street, Reading, and a junior at Wellesley College, who is quarantined at her home, had been ill less than a week. At that time she returned from a visit to Oswego, New York. Just after her return to her home she was stricken.

Examination has shown that the disease is poliomyelitis. Her many Wellesley friends were shocked to learn of her sickness. She is one of the most popular girls at the college.

Her classmate, Helen Burr, was seventeen years of age. She had been attending the Summer school at Wellesley. She contracted the sickness one week after leaving college. She lived in New York.

An illness of four-year-old Mary Ditto of No. 55 Pleasant street, Lynn, was diagnosed today as infantile paralysis by Dr. Arthur Brown of the State Health Department. The patient and five other children in the family were quarantined. This is Lynn's second case. The first was that of the nineteen-year-old victim on Blossom street, which resulted fatally. Blossom street is near Pleasant street.

SMITH DELAYS OPENING.

Smith College authorities announced that the opening of the college will be postponed from September 21 to October 5, because of the prevalence of infantile paralysis. President Burton at Northampton stated that he understood similar action would be taken by Wellesley and Mount Holyoke colleges.

Harvard University will open its Fall term on scheduled time, September 25, in spite of the plague.

Dean Yeomans said that thus far the question of postponing the opening had not even been considered, and that unless something new developed Harvard would open on the day set.

The date, however, is so late that even so Harvard will not open much before other educational institutions which have postponed their matriculation dates.

DELAY OPENINGS.

School postponements include: St. Mary's Parochial School, Westfield, indefinitely; Bradford Academy, Haverhill, until September 21; Milton schools until September 25; East Bridgewater, until September 13; Phillips Exeter, which was reported to have postponed its opening, has not done so yet.

New cases reported include a nine-month-old boy on Moulton street, Charlestown; Thomas Richardson, Andrews street, Lowell; Alice Livermore, Morris street, Southbridge; Mary Reardon, Hadley, and in Springfield, Albert Howan, Allendale street; and Robert Hartwell, Calhoun street.

The Natick health and school authorities announced today that the public school opening had been postponed from September 6 to September 18. One case of infantile paralysis, reported there a few weeks ago, was removed to a Boston hospital.

The Arlington School Board today announced that the opening of all the Arlington schools had been postponed from September 6 to September 11 as a measure of precaution.

MAY SEIZE ROADS FOR TROOPS

By International News Service.

Washington, Sept. 1.—Secretary of War Baker will not conclude that it is because of the impending railroad strike that the 11,000 troops have been ordered to return from the Mexican border, but high army officers say freely that this is the reason. They take "A delicate question of public policy" prevents the Secretary from expressing himself freely.

As a matter of fact the War Department has made full plans not only for taking the railroads over in case of a strike, but of keeping the trains moving. The administration is believed that nothing shall be allowed to interrupt the movement of troop trains.

Officers in charge of trains have been instructed if the men, engineers and conductors, shall leave their trains, to make demands upon them to work, if they refuse the officers must man the trains and direct them and if obstacles are placed to stop the movement of the trains.

Any person interfering with the train movement will be arrested. A scheme has been worked out to send a squad of armed men on railway motor cars ahead of the trains.

It was learned today that soon after the 11,000 troops ordered to the border reach there, the National Guard contingent will be ordered back. Those returning regiments will not be demobilized, but will be held in State camps within easy reach of the great cities.

They will not be mustered out until the strike cloud has cleared from the horizon.

Doctor Tells How To Strengthen Eyesight 50 per cent. In One Week's Time In Many Instances

A Free Prescription You Can Have Filled and Use at Home.

Philadelphia, Pa. Do you wear glasses? Are you a victim of eye strain or other eye weaknesses? If so, you will be glad to know that, according to Dr. Lewis, there is a real hope for you. Many whose eyes were failing say they have had their eyes restored through the principle of this wonderful free prescription. One man says, after trying it: "I was almost blind, could not see to read at all. Now I can read everything without any glasses and my eyes do not water any more. At night they would pain dreadfully. Now they feel fine all the time. It was like a miracle to me." A lady who used it says: "The atmosphere seemed hazy with or without glasses, but after using this prescription for fifteen days everything seems clear. I can even read fine print without glasses." It is believed that thousands who wear glasses can now discard them in a reasonable time, and multitudes more will be able to strengthen their eyes so as to be spared the trouble and expense of ever getting glasses. Eye troubles of many descriptions may be wonderfully benefited by following the simple rules. Here is the prescription: Go to any reliable druggist and get a bottle of Bon-Opto tablets. Drop one tablet in a fourth of a glass of water and allow to dissolve. Bathe the eyes in this liquid two to four times daily. You should notice your eyes clear up woderfully right from the start, and inflammation will quickly disappear. If your eyes need attending you, even a little, take steps to save them now before it is too late. Many hopelessly blind might have been saved if they had cared for their eyes in time.

Note: Another eminent Physician in whom the above people have implicit confidence, says that very excellent results in impaired conditions are well known to him, are specialists and without question due to the fine ingredients in Bon-Opto. The manufacturers guarantee this prescription to strengthen weak eyes in any case, no matter how bad, if used according to the directions, or refund the money. It can be obtained from any good druggist and is one of the very few preparations I feel should be kept on hand for regular use in almost every family.

RUSH ACTION ON 8-HOUR LAW TO PREVENT R. R. STRIKE

President Understood to Be Confident Measure Will Be Passed.

Hour day plan in passing upon a proposed freight rate increase.

UNDERWOOD'S AMENDMENT.

The amendment provides:

That the Interstate Commerce Commission shall have the power to fix the hours of labor and prescribe just and reasonable wages for all employes of railroads named in Section 1 of this act.

The rate of wages and the hours of labor provided for in this act shall remain fixed for service and pay until changed by the decision of the Interstate Commerce Commission, which, within a period of not less than six months nor more than twelve months from the passage of this act, shall determine what are just and reasonable wages and what shall be the hours of labor for all employes of the railroads above mentioned.

The Interstate Commerce Commission shall have the power from time to time to change the hours of labor and the rate of wages for all employes of the railroads named in Section 1, of this act in whole or in part, prescribed by it on its own initiative, on petition of the employes, the managers of the road or the public.

The eight-hour day is made effective January 1, next.

WITHOUT DIVISION.

The motion to report the bill was without division, as the committee agreed that the favorable report should not bind any member of the committee to vote or speak either for or against the bill on the floor of the Senate.

Senator La Follette of Wisconsin, after a rush trip from his home, reached Washington at noon today. He hurried directly from the station to the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee meeting, prepared to take an active part in the fight on the President's railroad legislative program.

La Follette's arrival was entirely unexpected, and Democratic leaders admittedly were alarmed that he might complicate the already delicate situation.

The first intimation of Republican opposition to the President's plan came when the Republican conference appointed a committee to draft a substitute proposal, a move which pressure of time later compelled them to abandon.

The Democratic Senators admitted that the Republicans had the power, if they so desired, to tie up the entire program. But they believed that they would agree to pass the eight-hour bill by itself and wait until next week to take up the remainder of the suggested presidential program.

CHIEFS AWAIT OUTCOME.

Meanwhile the brotherhood chiefs and the railway executives waited the outcome. President Garretson of the conductors went to the White House and saw the President. He would not talk of his visit, and Secretary Tumulty said that he was there "to give the President some information."

That Congress must definitely act on the eight-hour bill to have the railroad strike called off is the position taken by the brotherhood chiefs. They served notice on the President and the congressional leaders today that they would not accept a promise of action.

If the eight-hour bill has not been enacted into law by Monday morning, the strike will take place on schedule, the brotherhood chiefs say.

The President's efforts to get a contingent promise in case the Senate failed the proposed law have completely failed, administration officials say. It is understood that a statement making the union position clear was left with the President by A. B. Garretson of the conductors when he visited the White House.

The President was with Senator Newlands and the other committee members for twenty minutes and then returned to his office in the Capitol hotel to continue his conferences with Senator Kern and the other leaders.

"We are just keeping the threads together," was all that he would say on leaving the Newlands office.

In opening the debate in the House Representative Bennet of New York, Republican, made a bitter attack on the principles involved in the measure.

"The proposed legislation," said he, "is the deadliest blow ever aimed at organized labor. I don't propose to vote with a pistol at my head. I am against this bill because it is revolutionary. By this act today we take the first step away from the democracy of Thomas Jefferson."

Mr. Bennet declared that should this measure bring the length of a day's work for railroad men be passed Congress then would be called to fix the wages of everybody in the United States engaged in the manufacture of products entering into interstate trade.

DEFENDS BROTHERHOODS.

Representative Cooper of Ohio defended the members of the railroad brotherhoods. He declared they had not asked Congress to pass the eight-hour bill.

Representative Lenroot of Wisconsin, although declaring his intention to vote for the bill, asserted there were not a dozen members in all the House who knew whether the measure was a just one. "The President of the United States is the man responsible for this condition," shouted Lenroot.

He said the President in his recent message to Congress admitted that the railroad strike had been pending for a year and yet in all that time made no effort to do anything to avert it until the last minute.

Representative Gillett of Massachusetts declared that "one hour of Grover Cleveland or Theodore Roosevelt would have saved the country from the present situation."

Gillett said that if Wilson had been firm he would have held out for arbitration and would have won.

MERELY POSTPONE IT.

The railway representatives here declared that, in their opinion, the passage of the measure would postpone, but would not prevent the strike. They say that the measure as drafted is unconstitutional, holding that it fixes wages by its provision that present wages shall be paid under the shorter work day with pro rata compensation for overtime.

The Supreme Court, the railroads say, has in three decisions recently held that Congress had no power to fix wages. It is unlikely, however, that the railroads will urge their objection at this time, preferring to wait until after Congress completes its program to see what the outcome will be.

In any event, it is pointed out, that the date to make effective the proposed change will be either December or January 1 next, and by that time Congress will be back on the job, the campaign will be over with and it will have time to work out a general plan to prevent strikes or lockouts on public utilities.

DANGERS APPARENT.

It is admitted by both Democratic and Republican congressional leaders that the experiences of the last few days have brought home directly to the American people the dangers which a general railroad strike present and that some plan will have to be evolved which will make a renewal of the present crisis impossible.

Majority Leader Kern said he believed the Senate would pass the pending bill before Sunday. He also intimated that in order to get the measure it would be necessary to agree that the President's program as outlined in his address to Congress would have to be taken up and given consideration before adjournment.

The Republicans of the Senate will insist upon this being done. Senator Kern said that in any event he believed the legislation for the brotherhoods would be so far advanced by Saturday night that it would amply assure the country the strike would not occur.

Speculators Advance Food in the West.

By International News Service.

Chicago, Sept. 1.—Speculative food dealers in Chicago, the great food distributing centre of the Middle West, eagerly seized the advantage of the gravity of the strike situation today and prices continued to soar skyward. Potatoes jumped from $1.40 to $2.25 a bushel. Hogs sold up to $11.35, the highest price paid here in years.

Beef, sheep, fowls and other meats quickly advanced in price due to the unprecedented situation. Dealers claimed that the sudden jumps were due to heavy buying of smaller dealers anxious to be plentifully supplied in the event of a general strike.

They also claimed that housewives were laying in extra supplies of staples. Jobbers and warehouse men bought heavily in anticipation of higher prices.

Inquiry in New York on Higher Prices

New York, Sept. 1.—Despite the indications that there will be no railroad strike the public today is confronted with an abrupt rise in food prices, and the situation is such that District Attorney Swann has promised an immediate and wide-spread investigation.

During the past few days when the railroad situation looked the blackest and a strike seemed inevitable dealers in foodstuffs assured the public that there was plenty on hand and that there need be no fears of a famine. Prices have now begun to soar, however, and dealers in some of the city markets are demanding from 10 to 25 per cent more than they did on Wednesday.

Poultry has gone up from 18 to 20 cents a pound. A report that Western shippers are holding in New Jersey and Pennsylvania 100 carloads containing 4,000 chickens each, for further advance in price, is the first item to get the attention of the District Attorney.

It is possible that prices may drop as suddenly as they have risen with the relaxation of the embargoes put upon certain classes of freight by some of the railroads that while the strike situation is much brighter, hotel and restaurant owners have taken precautionary measures and great stores of surplus food is being stored.

By tomorrow the department of corrections and the department of public charities will have stored 140,000 worth of provisions for 1,500 patients and employes and 2,000 prisoners. By Monday they will have laid in one month's supply.

Road Heads Say Law Will Merely Put Off Issue

THE attitude of the railroad heads that the passage of the proposed eight-hour law will merely postpone the strike and not settle the present controversy is indicated by the following statements:

E. P. RIPLEY, president of the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe:

"Such a measure will be satisfactory to the men, inasmuch as it will give them the eight-hour day and the eight-hour day with ten-hour pay. But it is not satisfactory to the railroads. Congress has not the right to pass such a measure."

HALE HOLDEN, president of the Burlington, Chicago & Quincy:

"The railroads would take no action in the event of the passage of the Adamson bill, but we certainly will not allow an illegal law to stand if we can help it. It is my understanding that the Supreme Court of the United States has held recently, in two cases, that the Congress of the United States has absolutely no power to fix wages."

PRICES OF FOOD SOARING IN BOSTON

cents, pot roast at 18, bacon at 30 and frankforts, both large and small, at 16 cents.

ALL ALONG THE LINE.

The upward trend of prices is being felt all along the line in the meat market.

The fruit shortage is not likely to cause any serious inconvenience to local consumers, because of the fact that native fruits are now getting plentiful.

The fruits that come from the western coast, however, are feeling the effects of the strike danger. Should a strike be ordered they would be practically unobtainable.

Cucumbers are expensive luxuries these days, the best costing ten cents each. Practically all the other Summer vegetables are somewhat higher than the average.

CHICKENS ARE HIGHER.

There is a rise of about one cent a pound in fowls and chickens. Butter and eggs remain firm in price. There has been no advance reported because of the uncertainty regarding the railroad situation.

Mayor Curley said that in the event of dealers boosting the prices unnecessarily he would see that their cases reached the Grand Jury.

The District Attorney's office is ready to prosecute any extortion on the part of the produce dealers. Thus far he said his office had received no complaints.

Santa Fe Lifts Embargo on Perishable Goods

By International News Service.

Topeka, Kan., Sept. 1.—Much significance is attached to the fact that the embargo on perishables was lifted by the Santa Fe. An official announcement from the general offices stated that the road would accept freight, paid in advance, at the owner's risk. Only livestock shipments are excepted.

The action of the Santa Fe followed within twenty-four hours after the placing of the embargo. So far as could be learned it was the only one of the important railroads to rescind the embargo order, but in view of the hopeful views from Washington its action was regarded as the forerunner of many such announcements pending.

WAS IN HOSPITAL FOR EIGHT WEEKS

Popular Boston Lady Did Not Seem to Know What Her Trouble Was.

Every day more and more people are scaring themselves into unnecessary trips to the operating table. In many cases they have been simply overstrained by the tiresome symptoms of a deranged stomach and have magnified their troubles until they firmly believe that only the knife can save them. Plant Juice, the new herbal preparation, has been the means of saving very many the unnecessary expense and trouble of surgical operations.

Plant Juice is accomplishing wonders in fighting all ailments of the stomach, liver, kidneys and rheumatism. Every day more and more local testimonials are received vouching for the benefits obtained. Miss Jennie McRitchie, who resides at No. 83 Worcester street, and who is a well-known young lady here, having lived in this city for the past nine years, recently stated:

"I had suffered from stomach trouble, indigestion and dyspepsia for over five years. I was so bad off at one time that I was in the hospital for eight weeks. I could not hold any kind of food on my stomach. None of the doctors seemed to know what was the trouble with me. I was very nervous and restless and I could not sleep during the night; at about 4 o'clock in the morning I would fall asleep.

I lived on a very light diet, such as soup, milk and a little broth of some kind. I had a torpid liver, headaches and dizzy spells, and never without a coated tongue, and very sallow complexion. I have taken Plant Juice for about two weeks, and all my pains and aches are gone; I can eat any kind of food and it does not distress me at all. I sleep fine each night, and my complexion has cleared up. Plant Juice has cured me, and I am recommending it to all of my friends."

The Plant Juice Man is in the Drug Department of the Houghton & Dutton Store, where he is daily meeting the local public and introducing and explaining the merits of this remedy.—Advertisement.

BOSTON CHAMBER OF COMMERCE URGES TRAINMEN TO POSTPONE DATE OF THE STRIKE

BUSINESS MEN ALSO APPEAL TO WILSON

The special committee on the railroad situation of the Boston Chamber of Commerce has issued appeals to President Wilson, the Massachusetts members of Congress, the railroad brotherhoods of New England and to the railroad brotherhoods at Washington asking them to use their efforts to have the threatened strike on 225 systems postponed for thirty days.

The Chamber of Commerce committee asserts that it has not any ulterior purpose to serve, that it has no bias for the employer as against the best interest of the employe, but is acting as a question of humanity and common justice for the great bulk of the people.

The committee does not approve of rushing the eight-hour bill through Congress. It says that no legislation so hurriedly enacted can be just to the brotherhood and just to the people of the United States.

In its statement to the railroad brotherhoods at Washington, the committee asserts that a strike would be extremely costly, not only to the railroads, but to all interests. It says a tie-up will occasion the closing down of factories and throw upon the streets hundreds of idle men and women upon the streets.

APPEAL TO BROTHERHOODS.

The committee issued the following appeal to the railroad brotherhoods of New England:

"To the Railroad Brotherhoods of New England:

"No controversy between labor and capital was ever permanently or successfully settled without the support of public opinion. While we do not attempt to pass in any way on the merits of the questions involved in the dispute between the managers of the railroads and some of their employes, we do desire to call the attention of the trade union leaders and their fellow-workers to what we believe to be a matter of the highest importance, namely, that in the matter of public opinion they have nothing to lose and everything to gain by using what influence they have to urge their leaders to agree to a postponement of their strike for at least thirty days.

"Quite aside from the fact that legislation of such far-reaching importance as is now proposed ought not to be enacted without the most careful deliberation, there must come to the mind of every thoughtful man a picture of the widespread distress which must inevitably accompany even a partial paralysis of our railroad system. We do not believe that the suffering which will be entailed on thousands of our fellow citizens, men, women, children and babies (and as is always the case hitting the poor man hardest), can possibly be justified by any argument that can be advanced for the necessity of immediate action.

"With no ulterior purpose to serve, with no bias for the employer as against the best interest of the employe, but simply as a question of humanity and common justice for the great bulk of our people who, while not directly involved in the merits of this controversy, must, as always, be the chief sufferers if this strike is actually made effective—we appeal to the patriotism and humanity of the labor men involved in this controversy to use their influence to postpone for a reasonable time an action which must, if it eventually comes, bring with it widespread distress and suffering."

"Boston Chamber of Commerce Special Committee on Railroad Situation.
"Louis K. Liggett, chairman, president United Drug Company.
"Edmund Billings, Collector of Customs, District of Massachusetts.
"Henry I. Harriman, Connecticut River Power Co.
"Russell Robb, Stone & Webster.
"Bernard J. Rothwell, President Bay State Milling Co.
"Charles F. Weed, President Boston Chamber of Commerce.
"Frederic S. Snyder, President Batchelder & Snyder Co."

Chief Points in the Chamber's Appeal

HERE are the chief points contained in the appeals sent by the special committee on the railroad situation of the Boston Chamber of Commerce to President Wilson, the Massachusetts members of Congress, the railroad brotherhoods of New England and the brotherhood chief at Washington:

1—In the matter of public opinion the New England members of the brotherhood have nothing to lost and everything to gain by using what influence they have to urge their leaders to agree to a postponement of their strike order for at least thirty days.

2—No controversy between labor and capital was ever permanently or satisfactorily settled without the support of public opinion.

3—No legislation so hurriedly enacted as the proposed eight-hour bill can be just to the brotherhoods and just to the people of the United States. The public has a right to demand that before enacting any legislation time be allowed for its consideration.

4—A strike would close the factories and put thousands of idle men and women on the street.

ASK LEADERS' AID.

The following telegram was dispatched to the railroad brotherhoods at Washington by the special committee:

"To the Railroad Brotherhoods, Washington, D. C.:

"Without in any way attempting to pass on the merits of the controversy now pending between you and your employers, we feel it our duty to call your attention to public opinion. As the controversy now stands a strike order has been issued effective on the morning of September 4, such order if carried out by you will tie up all railroad transportation throughout the entire country and will bring great suffering to men, women and children in all walks of life. It would be extremely costly, not only to the railroads, but to all interests. It will occasion the closing down of factories and throw thousands of idle men and women on the streets.

"At this hour the only apparent relief in sight is that legislation shall be passed in Washington that will give you what your committee has asked your employers for. No legislation so hurriedly enacted can be just to you and just to the people of the United States. We appeal to you to use your influence to postpone this strike for thirty days in order that the members of both Houses of Congress may have an opportunity to investigate more thoroughly the question on which they have been asked to pass legislation. We believe that this postponement will not only appeal to public opinion as being fair, but cannot in any way jeopardize your rights in the controversy.

"Boston Chamber of Commerce, by special committee on the railroad situation.
"Louis K. Liggett, chairman, president United Drug Company.
"Edmund Billings, Collector of Customs, District of Massachusetts.
"Henry I. Harriman, Connecticut River Power Company.
"Russell Robb, Stone & Webster.
"Bernard J. Rothwell, president Bay State Milling Company.
"Frederic S. Snyder, president Batchelder & Snyder Company.
"Charles F. Weed, president Boston Chamber of Commerce."

The following telegram was sent to President Wilson, and all Massachusetts members of Congress, by the Chamber's special committee:

"The Boston Chamber of Commerce without attempting to pass upon the merits of the question believes that the impending strike should be postponed for at least thirty days in justice to the public who will in the event of a strike be the real sufferers. No legislation of such importance should be hurried. The public for whom we speak have a right to demand that before enacting any legislation so far reaching as that now proposed sufficient time be allowed for its consideration. We therefore ask that you exert every effort to postpone the proposed strike.

"CHARLES F. WEED, President, "Boston Chamber of Commerce."

CHAMBER COMMITTEE ARBITER.

The committee also announced that at the instance of the presidents of the three railroads entering Boston, it had agreed in event of a strike to decide what kinds of freight should be moved in preference to others.

All questions of policy as to what types of freight shall have the preference will be referred to the Chamber Committee which will act as clearing house, and the decision of the committee will be taken by the railroads as absolutely final. This applies only to freight moving into metropolitan Boston.

Whirlwind Business at Boston Terminal

There was a whirl of passenger, baggage and express business at both Boston's big railroad terminals today.

The triple flood was due to an advance rush of Labor Day travel, aggravated by a lively fear of the public lest there be a railroad strike and tie-up, Congress or no Congress.

Vacationists caused the bulk of the rush. Many, due to return home Labor Day, took no chances, but started today. Others, who planned to get away next week, started today, apparently willing to take chances on a return journey.

Four morning expresses from New York arrived at the South Station, via the New Haven line, in two sections each.

Outward passenger travel taxed the roads in the same proportion. The 10:05, 3:05 and 3:05 expresses over the New Haven to New York ran in two sections.

All limited trains carried ten Pullmans to accommodate the gilt-edge patronage, which was willing to pay for extra speed and separate chairs.

JAMMED TO THE ROOF.

Baggage cars of the regular trains were jammed to their roofs. In addition, the New Haven road put on a special all-baggage train, which pulled out at 10 o'clock for Orleans on Cape Cod. A similar all-baggage train left at 3:30 for New Haven.

The express service was taxed to its utmost with a record-breaking quantity of packages sent today to avoid strike delay. At 9 o'clock the long platforms next to the express car tracks just below the outward baggage room at the South Station were piled long and high with express matter, while a string of loaded express cars was all ready for the engine to hook on and start it moving. It was the most imposing display of express material since the ante-Christmas Jam.

The Boston & Maine was rushed in similar manner at the North Station. The noon express from Portland arrived in two sections. Plans were made to dispatch the 6:05 Western express in two sections, the advance reservations having shown long before that this train would be heavy. There was a rush back to and from beach and mountain resorts and the express business was enormous.

The Providence freight service will be railed upon to exert itself in case of a railroad freight tangle. The Bay State Street Railway Company has thirty-two express and thirty-four service cars available for freight use. The Boston & Worcester has twenty. The moment a strike is declared the Boston & Worcester will inaugurate a thirty-minute freight service between Boston & Worcester. The Boston Elevated, which brings Bay State and Boston & Worcester cars to the terminals, is prepared to sell about thirty service cars to the trolley freight facilities.

GET LIST OF AUTOS.

The Lawrence Chamber of Commerce, at a "strike" meeting today, discussed a central market plan. A promise was received from the Bay State trolley management to try to handle freight, in addition to passenger traffic.

Lawrence mill agents reported that while they had supplies on hand, they would have to close if shipping facilities were impaired and storage for finished products became overcrowded. Coal and provision dealers also are making preparations. The city council has been asked to appropriate $10,000 for food transportation.

Great Lakes Seamen to Stay at Posts

Chicago, Sept. 1.—Seamen on the Great Lakes will not become involved in the railroad strike if called, according to Victor A. Olander, secretary of the Lake Seamens Union. In a statement issued by an officer of the union it was stated that 15,000 lake seamen would act out in sympathy with the railroad brotherhoods and that no islander had the strike order "in his pocket."

"The lake seamen have not even considered a sympathetic strike with the brotherhoods and has

BAY STATE TROOPS NEAR DEATH AFTER BEING HIT BY LIGHTNING

By BERT FORD.

Second Brigade Headquarters, El Paso, Tex., Sept. 1.—Three members of M Company of Lowell, Ninth Massachusetts Infantry, were nearly killed at Camp Cotton last night by a bolt of lightning. They were unconscious three hours and speechless and hysterical some time after being revived.

The victims are Privates John Mattes, Walter Bruce and Fred Siegel. They were in a detail of fourteen men on patrol duty under Sergeant John Wallace. They were in a schoolyard when a thunder storm broke and a ball of fire ploughed the ground close to the squad.

Mattes, Bruce and Siegel had the butts of their rifles resting on the ground. The former is a circuit which bowled them over like ninepins. Mattes' rifle was buried thirty feet. He landed on the back of his head and was made temporarily deaf.

THROWN FROM COT.

All three were well enough to return to duty today when their company, like the others of the Ninth, return to Camp Cotton after twenty days of outpost duty along 140 miles of border.

Manuel Barrows was thrown down, but not otherwise affected. Corporal Thomas McDermott was on his cot in a tent 600 yards away and was thrown out.

Daniel J. Doherty of C Company, of the Ninth, whose home is in Charlestown, suddenly went blind while walking in the street in El Paso. His eyes had bothered him. He had just left a consultation of doctors when his sight left him and he was noticed groping aimlessly. A passerby had to lead him to an automobile which hurried him to Camp Cotton. He is to be sent home. The intense sunlight and sand storms have been very hurtful to the eyes of many Bay State soldiers.

The men of Colonel Edward Logan's command entered their extended border duty. The residents of the various villages and ranches entertained them royally. The men hated to leave. They had all sorts of adventures. They lost and recovered mules, arrested armed Mexicans, pursued suspected smugglers, and were everywhere praised for their efficiency.

The hunt for bandits at Fort Hancock several days ago, exclusively reported in the AMERICAN, resulted in the arrest of Mexicans who claimed to be General Ochoa and Colonel Jose La Luna, Villistas.

Michigan troops relieved the Ninth on the border posts.

The protest made by officers of the Eighth Regiment over the refusal of the local paymaster to pay officers commissioned since July 1, resulted in a telegram from the War Department ordering the depot quartermaster in the El Paso district to pay these officers in full.

CHAPLAINS TO MEET.

The 150 army chaplains now on the border are to hold their first convention soon and take action on Y. M. C. A. activities and other vital issues.

Captain Thomas F. Brown, A Company, Eighth Regiment, who is an ordnance expert, was recently detailed to Columbus, and was today transferred to the more important station at Deming, N. M.

John J. Gerry, H Company, Fifth Regiment, has been ordered home because of disability.

The Fifth's rookies have received 200 cots, and cots are being rapidly distributed to rookies of the Eighth and Ninth.

The entire Massachusetts Field Artillery Regiment lined up for inspection yesterday and made an imposing spectacle, as did the provisional cavalry regiment, which was also inspected. It is reported that the artillery and cavalry are going on extended hikes.

Prices on foodstuffs have begun to soar in El Paso because of the threatened railroad strike. The hotels have boosted prices. The Massachusetts officers say troop and supply trains can be operated by the army without fear of molestation or great delay. The impending strike has caused widespread apprehension here, nevertheless.

Gloom Along Border Over Dependents' Bill

By BOB ALLEN.

El Paso, Tex., Sept. 1.—More gloom and worry settled over Camp Cotton today on receipt of the news from Washington that, because of the signing of the appropriation bill providing for the dependents of those in service on the border, no individual applications for discharge would be considered by army officials in the Southern Department.

More than twenty members of the Eighth Regiment have had their applications in for over a month and as a result of this they are valueless. In each case it has necessitated sending home for the necessary affidavits of information.

Privates Fox, Miner and Crosley of the Hospital Corps, Eighth Regiment, reported this morning for duty at the new Camp Cotton Hospital which received patients today for the first time.

The machine gun headquarters and supply companies were inspected by regular army officers. The Machine gun company of this regiment will proceed to Fort Bliss today where it will be given a course of instruction by the regular army ordnance officer stationed there.

Captain Daniel C. Smith of the Eighth Regiment today forwarded his resignation to General Sweetzer. Thomas M. Cargill of Company K has been granted a thirty-days' furlough in order that he may go home to see his dying mother.

DR. K. L. ACHORN DIES OF AUTO INJURIES

Dr. Kendall L. Achorn of No. 657 Boylston street is dead at the Massachusetts General Hospital of injuries received when, while driving home from Nantasket in his automobile with Dr. J. Herbert Hunt of Newton, he mistook a shadow for a turn of the road in Milton and swerved into a tree, the machine turning turtle.

The dead man's name was given yesterday as Carl C. Achorn and his address as No. 673 Boylston street. Dr. Ralph C. Achorn has offices at No. 678 Boylston street, and since the story first appeared has had to answer many telephone calls of inquiry and explain that it was not he who was injured. The correct address of the man now dead was No. 657 Boylston street.

PANAMA CANAL TO REOPEN IN 2 DAYS

Washington, Sept. 1.—The War Department today announced that Major-General Goethals, governor-general of the Panama canal zone, reported to the department that the new slide in the canal at Cucaracha channel was not serious.

The report, dated August 30, stated the channel could be re-opened in two days.

MISS WOOD TELLS HOW CUTICURA HEALED ECZEMA

Almost anything may cause eczema. Impure or coarsely medicated soap, cosmetics, massaging, sunburn, wind, cold, scratch of a pin, etc. But it takes more than cold cream to soothe and heal once started. That's why all who would keep the skin free from it should be careful as to what they use for toilet purposes. Cuticura is the purest, gentlest and sweetest of soaps and the Ointment the most creamy of emollients. They cost a little more but what are a few cents to a fair skin? Trial free by mail.

"I began to have eczema at fifteen and I had it for several years. It began on my limbs and started with a little pimple which became scaly and kept spreading. The itching was so bad that I scratched and the more I did it, the more I wanted to and my face was badly disfigured. Even the sheets hurt me, and it was impossible to sleep.

"I used a great many remedies but they did me no good. Then I began to use Cuticura Soap and Ointment which helped me right away, and when I used two bars of the Cuticura Soap and two boxes of the Cuticura Ointment I was healed within a month." (Signed) Miss Mabel Wood, 182 Vernon St., Brattleboro, Vt., April 27, 1916.

For Trial Free by Mail address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. H, Boston." Sold throughout the world.

Cocoanut Oil Fine For Washing Hair

If you want to keep your hair in good condition, be careful what you wash it with.

Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and is very harmful. Just plain mulsified cocoanut oil (which is pure and entirely greaseless) is much better than the most expensive soap or anything else you can use for shampooing, as this can't possibly injure the hair.

Simply moisten your hair with water and rub it in. One or two teaspoonfuls will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanses the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rinses out easily, and removes every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get mulsified cocoanut oil most any drug store. It is cheap, and a few ounces is sufficient for all the family for months.—Advertisement.

MRS. B. W. VAN RIPER, formerly Mildred Kennard of Melrose, bride of Pennsylvania State College professor.

PROFESSOR WED TO FORMER PUPIL

Miss Mildred E. Kennard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter I. Kennard of No. 22 Cole street, Melrose, and Professor Benjamin W. Van Riper of Pennsylvania State College were married last night in the M. E. Church at Melrose. Dr. William E. Huntington, president emeritus of Boston University, performed the ceremony. Several hundred guests were present.

The bride was a pupil in the class of Professor Van Riper when he was at Boston University College of Liberal Arts two or three years ago. Professor Van Riper resigned from Boston University a year ago, following a controversy with President Murlin over religious matters. The bride was graduated from Boston University the same month, and their engagement was announced the following September.

HUGHES HEARS OF PEACE IN KANSAS

Hays, Kan., Sept. 1.—Charles E. Hughes came to Kansas today bringing with him the gospel of a protective tariff and protection of American rights in all parts of the world. This point was the candidate's first stop in the Sunflower State.

The Hughes party was assured upon its arrival that harmony prevails among the Progressives and the old line Republicans in the State. Mr. Hughes congratulated State leaders warmly for their work.

MANSFIELD SPEAKS IN THREE PLACES

Frederick W. Mansfield, in his campaign for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, spoke at noon today to the employes of the Blake Pump Works at Cambridge. He will speak at 8 o'clock tonight at a meeting of Local 16, Stationary Engineers' and Firemen's Union, at No. 274 Washington street, and at 9 o'clock he will address an open-air rally at Pierce square, Milton.

3 Die in Kansas City Explosion.

Kansas City, Mo., Sept. 1.—Three men were killed and one injured probably fatally, when an ammonia tank exploded in a meat market here today.

BRIDE OF MONTH SLAIN BY HUSBAND

Chicago, Sept. 1.—A police dragnet was thrown out today all over the Middle West for J. Maurice Pettit, a successful young business man, who murdered his eighteen-year-old bride of a month in their apartment last night. Mrs. Pettit, as Katherine Keyser, was a favorite in society's younger set. It is believed Pettit is insane.

HEBREWS OF NEW ENGLAND MEET AT MANCHESTER TONIGHT

Manchester, N. H., Sept. 1.—The formal opening of the sixth annual convention of the Associated Young Men's Hebrew Associations of New England and the second annual convention of the Associated Young Women's Hebrew Associations will take place tonight with religious services at the Adath Jeshurun Synagogue.

Rabbi Phinehas Israeli of Boston will conduct the services, and addresses of welcome will be delivered by prominent citizens of this city and State. Three thousand delegates, guests and visitors are expected.

The fate of the Jews in Europe after the present war will be discussed. Probably the most important matter to be acted upon will be the stand of the organization on holding an American Jewish Congress for handling problems arising out of the war.

Many new features will be introduced at this year's convention. The outstanding features will be the religious services tonight and tomorrow morning; religious school conference on Sunday afternoon; the communal banquet on Sunday evening; a sight-seeing trip through the surrounding neighborhood of Manchester next Monday morning, and the grand ball on Monday evening.

Among the distinguished persons who will speak at the banquet Sunday evening are Governor Spalding, United States Senator James H. Hollis, Judge Julian W. Mack of Chicago, president of the National Council of Young Men's Hebrew Associations; Professor Richard Gottheil, of Columbia University; Mayor Spaulding of Manchester; Lewis Goldberg, assistant United States District Attorney at Boston; David A. Ellis, former chairman of the Boston School Committee; Miss Sadie Bell Upper, president of the Associated Young Women's Hebrew Associations of New England, and Albert Hurwitz, president of the Associated Young Men's Hebrew Associations of New England, who will act as toastmaster.

Pitfalls Before a Model's Feet.

Miss Billie Scott, one of the most famous of the young women whose faces, quite literally, are their fortunes, continues her startling revelations in next Sunday's AMERICAN.

IF THE boy
THAT RAN into me
WITH HIS bicycle
TUESDAY AFTERNOON
ON COMMONWEALTH avenue
READS THIS,
I WANT him to know
THAT I didn't mean
WHAT I said
WHEN HE hit me
AND THAT ordinarily
I DON'T use
THAT SORT of language.
AND I'M sorry
AND IT wasn't his fault.
HE COULDN'T help it.
HE GOT excited
AND WHEN you get excited
ON A bicycle
YOU'RE ON you're way.
BUT YOU don't know
WHERE YOU'RE going
WHEN I was a boy
I HAD a bicycle
AND I remember one time
I WAS riding
OVER A crossing
AND FOR a mile
THERE WAS only one man
IN SIGHT
AND I saw him
AND STARTED after him
AND TRIED to get out of his way
AND COULDN'T,
AND HE ran
AND I chased him
AND BEAT him to the sidewalk
AND HIT him
AND WHEN I got up
HE STRUCK me
ON THE side of the head
HARD
WITH HIS open hand
AND I'VE always believed
IT WAS that
THAT MAKES me write
LIKE THIS
AND ANOTHER time
I STARTED to ride
OVER A bridge
AND THERE was one place
WHERE THE rail was down
AND I saw it
AND IT was just wide enough
FOR THE handle bars
TO GO through
AND INTO the river
AND IF you ever rode a bicycle
YOU'LL KNOW
WHAT WHATEVER it was
I SAID
TO THE small boy
I SHOULDN'T have said it
AND I'M sorry
AND ASHAMED of myself
AND I apologize
PUBLICLY
AND EVERYTHING
I THANK you.

GET DAMAGES IF AUTO SPATTERS MUD ON YOU

If an auto spatters you, get damages, Secretary Lawrence G. Brooks of the Highway Safety League, in a letter to the AMERICAN today, calls the attention of the public to its rights as follows:

This is the season when many a person is spoiled from being caught by an automobile. The Federation deems it exist that there is no redress for the victim. It will be a comfort to pedestrians and a warning to motorists to know that there is a remedy.

Most of the courts of this State in a recent decision gave damages to a person whose clothes had been ruined by a passing motor-car. This court held that the driver owed a duty to careful pedestrians as he operated so as to avoid not only injury to the person from violence but to the clothes from splatter, and that in determining the proper speed of a car the muddy state of the street is a circumstance to be considered as well as other traffic conditions.

This decision is obviously good law, as it is common sense.

LAWRENCE G. BROOKS

DENY HIGHER FARE TO BAY STATE

The Bay State Street Railway Company's plea for a six-cent fare on its entire system has been denied by the Public Service Commission.

Increases may be permitted in interurban routes, provided a new schedule is filed which, on the approval of the commissioners, will go into effect in thirty days.

The report of the commission on the six-cent fare proposal states the company "is mismanagement and urges that dividends or surplus until augmented earnings are sufficient to rehabilitate the deteriorated track and equipment."

No increase will be allowed on the present five-cent zones within, or fixing the centers of the following cities: Boston (including Hyde Park), Brockton (Belmont, Everett, Fall River, Haverhill, Lawrence, Lowell, Lynn, Malden, Melrose, Quincy, Revere, Salem and Taunton.

The five-cent zones radiating from these centers include "the region," says, "in whole or in part, adjoining cities and towns as, for instance, Beverly, Peabody, Saugus and Swampscott."

The cities served by the Bay State in which the increase will be possible are Gloucester, Newburyport, Woburn, Medford and New Bedford. The latter city, however, has but one line of the road within its limits, and would not be seriously affected.

The road also enters nine Massachusetts towns, but a large portion of these would secure immunity in whole or in part, because of their having included in the fare zones existing beyond the municipal limits by the fifteen cents rate.

Permission to abolish the eight-hour check will not be granted.

The commission admits that under the Bay State law it is barred from ordering the company to increase rates and is required to consider the "net earnings after the payment of taxes and operating charges, as the measure of profit, rather than the amount paid to stockholders or bondholders."

After an arraignment of the officials of the company for permitting the depreciation, proof of which was brought out in the hearings, the report says: "The company must expect temporarily to suspend dividends and to devote all its net earnings into the property. This may seem a drastic prescription, but the situation clearly calls for it in order to place the future earning power of the system upon a more stable basis."

Take Iron, Says Doctor, if You Want Plenty of "Stay There" Strength Like an Athlete!

Ordinary Nuxated Iron Will Make Delicate, Nervous, Rundown People 200% Stronger in Two Weeks' Time, in Many Cases

New York, N. Y.—Most people foolishly seem to think they are going to get renewed health and strength from some stimulating medicine, secret nostrum or narcotic drug, said Dr. Sauer, a well-known Specialist, who has studied widely both in this country and Europe, when, as a matter of fact, real and true strength can only come from the food you eat. But people often fail to get the strength out of their food because they haven't enough iron in their blood to enable it to change food into living muscle and their weakened, nervous condition then knows something is wrong, but they can't quite tell what to do. Generally temporary disorder of the stomach, liver or kidney trouble are symptoms of some other ailment caused by the lack of iron in the blood. This thing may go on for years, while the patient suffers untold agony. If you are not strong or well, you owe it to yourself to make the following test. See how long you can work or how far you can walk without becoming tired. Next take two five grain tablets of ordinary nuxated iron three times per day after meals for two weeks. Then test your strength again and see for yourself how much you have gained. I have seen dozens of nervous, rundown people who were ailing all the while, double and even triple their strength and endurance and entirely get rid of all symptoms of dyspepsia, liver and other troubles in from ten to fourteen days' time simply by taking iron in the proper form, and this after they had in some cases been doctoring for months without obtaining any benefit. But don't take the old forms of reduced iron, iron acetate or tincture of iron; simply to save a few cents. You must take iron in a form that can be easily absorbed and assimilated like nuxated iron if you want it to do you any good, otherwise it may prove worse than useless. Many an athlete or prize fighter has won the day simply because he knew the secret of great strength and endurance and filled his blood with iron before he went into the affray, while many another has gone down to inglorious defeat simply for the lack of iron.

NOTE—Nuxated Iron, recommended above by Dr. Sauer, is one of the newer organic iron compounds. Unlike the older inorganic iron products, it is easily assimilated, does not injure the teeth, make one constipated or upset the stomach, on the contrary, is a fine tonic remedy, in nearly all forms of indigestion, as well as for nervous, run-down conditions. The Manufacturers have such great confidence in Nuxated Iron that they offer to forfeit $100.00 to any charitable institution if they cannot take any man or woman under 60 who lacks iron and increase their strength 200 per cent, or over in four weeks' time provided the have no serious organic trouble. They also offer to refund your money if it does not at least double your strength and endurance in ten days' time. It is dispensed by all druggists.—Advertisement.

CROWLEY IS THE BETTING CHOICE AT COMMERCIAL A. C.

By RINGSIDE.

It's up to Tommy Reagan, the promising East Boston boxer, a former star of the amateurs, a boy who was as good as the extreme best among the bantamweights when competing for medals, and who now has himself enlisted among the professional featherweights, to make a success of tonight's windup encounter at the Commercial A. C.

He goes against Mike Crowley, the swift-stepping, pert pug from Maldenite Crowley has made good every time he has started since going to work among the pros. He has operated some five or six times and has been bracketed every time.

Crowley will scarcely disappoint. There's really no chance of Mike going wrong. He may lose, can lose, but for him to run second, especially a putridly punk second, Reagan has got to come through the positive sensation the most enthusiastic of his supporters claim him to be.

Here are skilled hookers and hard enough hitters and if Reagan fails to shine it will only be because the experience Crowley has gained in professional company stands him in the best of stead.

MISS BJURSTEDT WINS AT CEDARHURST

New York, Sept. 1.—Miss Molla Bjurstedt, national tennis champion, attained the final round of the women's invitation tournament of the Rockaway Hunting Club at Cedarhurst, L. I., by defeating Miss Margaret Taylor, 6—3, 6—1.

E. EVERGREEN PLANK IS 41

Southpaw Eddie Plank of the Browns celebrated his forty-first birthday here yesterday. He says he expects to stay in the big show until he's forty-five.

Ganzel Would Like to Get in Harness

New York, Sept. 1.—John Ganzel is getting $1,200 per month for loafing—but John isn't wildly happy about it.

"I've spent every Summer of my adult life in working—and I can't get quite used to this 'taking it easy' idea," says John. "I'd like to handle a ball club again."

John managed the Rochester Internationals until along toward the latter part of the 1915 season. Then Lee Magee quit his job as pilot of the Brooklyn Feds and the Ward family hired John at $7,500 per season.

The Feds are no more—but that contract is in. It was a personal agreement between Ganzel and the late Robert B. Ward, and it won't expire until the end of the 1917 season, meaning that John is going to get $15,000 for doing nothing.

"But I reiterate that I'd rather work than merely to drop around the Ward factory twice a month and collect the mazuma," declares John.

CRICKET NOTES

TOMORROW'S games in the Massachusetts State Cricket League, according to the original schedule, should wind up the season, but owing to several postponements an account of bad weather in the early season playing has been extended to September 23.

AN interesting game may result in the clash between the champion Whites and Everett at Glendale Park, Everett. Most teams, in playing the champs, are beaten before the start. This game may be no exception.

* * *

CANTON meets the despised part of the United Shoe outfit at Beverly. If the team that has played for the Blues the past five weeks is again in the field chalk up two more points for the visitors.

* * *

BROCKTON, runner-up in the league standing, will have as its opponent at Franklin Field the Wanderers, and a hard tussle is expected. The former team must win to retain its position in the standing.

* * *

CARIBBEANS and Athletics will occupy the second crease at Franklin Field, and the former should have little trouble gaining two points from their opponents.

* * *

ST. GEORGE, which is scheduled to play Standard, will forfeit its game, and the players will travel to Quincy to root for the football team.

* * *

WEST INDIA will be entertained by the Needham team at Needham Heights. The latter has lost two straight games and will be called upon to extend itself to avert a third loss as the Indians are travelling fast these days.

WELSH-WHITE MEASUREMENTS TAKEN FOR BOSTON AMERICAN

COLORADO SPRINGS, Col., Sept. 1.—The measurements of Freddie Welsh of London and Charley White of Chicago, who meet here in a twenty-round battle for the lightweight title Labor Day, were taken by Dr. Lennox for the Boston AMERICAN and the other Hearst papers, as follows:

McLOUGHLIN CHOICE FOR TENNIS REPEAT

Forest Hills, N. Y., Sept. 1.—The tennis enthusiasts are "pulling" for Maurice McLoughlin to regain his title as champion. The red-headed wizard so far in the tournament has shown all the brilliancy of old, and though he still must play three or four of the greatest cracks in America the "fans" are confident that he will win. Among the feature matches today were:

Wallace F. Johnson vs. Walter M. Hall.

Clarence J. Griffin vs. Edward H. Whitney.

R. Norris Williams vs. William J. Clothier.

William M. Johnson vs. Leonard Beekman.

Robert Lindley Murray vs. Karl H. Behr.

Braves Ready for Drive On with Giants Today

By JOHN W. MORAN, JR.

G. T. Stallings, sometimes referred to as the Miracle Man, led his bunch of athletes back into town this morning but two and one-half games behind the league-leading Dodgers. Since they left here the afternoon of August 11 they have won thirteen and lost seven games. Today they grapple with the Giants in the first game of a series on which much depends. Brooklyn and the Phillies are battling in Philadelphia.

In all, the Braves play the Giants five games during the next three playing days. That means a double-header tomorrow and the customary pair Monday, Labor Day. Of course, the completion of this program depends greatly on the kindness of Old Sol. Thus far he hasn't shone on Braves Field on holidays. Possibly he will make up for lost time Monday.

McGraw came into town late last night leading his bunch of Giants. They are not the cocky crowd which came here some time ago with more than fifteen games won in a row to their credit. However, they are cocky enough and claim they are going to clean up.

No team could help being a scrappy one which included in its lineup Heinie Zimmerman and "Hurk" Hendrix. These new Giants, together with "Slim" Sallee and Lew McCarty, should prove some incentive to bring Boston fans out to the park in droves.

BIG CROWDS LOOKED FOR.

Inasmuch as tomorrow is the last half-holiday for a great many of the big business houses in the city, a large crowd is anticipated for the double engagement. As remarked before, this series with the Giants is an important one. Should the Braves succeed in strangling the Giants, while the Phillies are doing the same to the Dodgers, the local team should just about go into first place.

Local fandom will recall that in 1914 the Braves and Giants grappled Labor Day and that for a brief period on that day the Braves went into the lead in the National League race. Likewise they will recall that the greatest crowd which ever witnessed two ball games in a single day flocked to Fenway Park on that occasion.

HISTORY MAY REPEAT.

It may be that in one respect history will repeat itself, that is insofar as the crowd is concerned. The Braves can go into first place by winning all five of their games from the Giants if at the same time the Phillies down the Dodgers in four contests. However, this is all speculation and may not be a reality.

The chances would favor Tom Hughes starting this afternoon's game with George Tyler or Jess Barnes in reserve. McGraw can call on either "Rube" Benton or Anderson. Benton was in Wednesday's game at Cincinnati for a part of one inning, and prior to that had not worked since last Saturday. Anderson has been resting since Monday.

The Braves, since they left home, have been hitting the ball remarkably well and in several instances batting averages have been increased.

TWIN BILL IN PHILLY.

Philadelphia, Sept. 1.—Philadelphia and Brooklyn play a double-header here this afternoon. The home management looks for the biggest week-day crowd in the city's history.

EARL JR. GETS THE FREE-FOR-ALL EVENT

Woonsocket, R. I., Sept. 1.—The feature of the getaway day card at the driving park was the free-for-all pace. It proved a keen contest between that game gray horse, Earl, Jr., and Billy Crozier's classy entrant, Baron Hal, with the former winning in fast time.

John Coakley drove an admirable race, laying behind Baron Hal until the turn for home, then outbrushing his chief competitor to the wire in the first two heats. The third heat went to Baron Hal, as Coakley delayed his rush until too late, and was just nosed out. The time of the second heat, 2:11, was the fastest mile of the year.

Birdie Alcyo was on her good behavior and annexed the 2:15 pace, even though finishing behind the red flag in the third heat. She was placed and allowed to start again, as Bolduc, her driver, claimed he was cut off at the turn by Kates Patch. The fifth and final heat was bitterly fought out between the pair, but the fourteen-year-old daughter of Dan Patch finally had to succumb.

Big Card for the Bicycle Fans

A one-hour motor-paced race and a special tandem handicap event stand out as the feature attractions on tomorrow night's bill at the Revere cycle track.

The paced race will bring to the post Clarence Carman, Leon Didier, Georges Seres and George Wiley. Five of the fastest professional pairs at the beach will clash in the tandem contest. The teams will be made up as follows: Suter and Turville, Sullivan and Herbert, Connolly and Williams, Grant and Reynolds and Jackson and Boyd.

Didier is on his feet again after being laid up for over a week with ptomaine poisoning. He is ready and fit to give one of his best exhibitions. Although he has not won as consistently as last year, Didier has shown plenty of fight this season. That has been one of the most noticeable and pleasing features of his riding.

The Labor Day meet has already been arranged and will be staged in the evening, so as not to conflict with the afternoon sporting events. The big feature of this will be a fifty-mile motor-paced race, with Carman, Didier, Linart and Modonna as the contestants.

St. Frisco Lands $5,000 Stake at Poughkeepsie

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Sept. 1.—St. Frisco, the big stallion from the Geers stable, was the victor in the $5,000 stake for 2:08 trotters, the feature event of the Grand Circuit races at Hudson River Driving Park.

The stallion stepped the fastest three-heat race ever trotted over the local course.

Tina Jay, sensation on the half mile tracks, made her first start and won second money.

ChampsFaceNewYork

Team Has Confidence

By HERMAN NICKERSON.

The World's Champions left town for their drive in the East and West and are now quartered in New York, where they face the Highlanders today in the first of a four-game series. The champs have not had the best of luck during the latter part of their home stay nor are they expected to get the breaks on the road. They have the edge on all the clubs in the league in so far as they have the lead, and this at the present moment means much.

As was said the other day, if the Red Sox were as many games behind as they are to the lead at this moment the fans of Greater Boston would be pulling their heads off for them. The fact that through an injury and through some bad baseball they have lost a few games seems to have taken the pep out of the support.

RED SOX LOOK GOOD.

This is in a way natural for there is nothing that succeeds like success, and when a team that looked to be able to win 'gota beaten it is the most natural thing in the world for the fans to fall away. But figuring the chances of all the clubs in the American League and giving the Red Sox the worst of it it doesn't seem to me to be possible for them to be beaten out for the flag.

There is one great drive necessary for this club to come through. They have had an accident which will hurt them for at least two weeks and perhaps more, but in the face of that they are strong enough, in my opinion, to go through to a successful finish.

The spirit of the team is the best that I ever saw in any organization. This means a whole lot, for without it the club wouldn't be in the league figuratively speaking.

ALL WILL WORK HARD.

The men who are the regulars feel that they must do more than their share to get the club there. The pitching has been most indifferent, and this has had more to do wi... the lack of a wider margin than most people imagine.

Still with all the handicaps and with all the improvement of the other Western and Eastern clubs the Red Sox have got to be the club to go through and win for the glory of the city and the league.

The club is in the best of spirits and the boys feel confident that they will make a good showing against the Highlanders. They also feel that they will be there with the Senators, and while the Athletics are going at a pretty fast clip, they are likely to get them. On the road the Red Sox are a good team, so that when they return for the final games they should have a fair margin, if not one that would make them the undisputed champions of the league.

Jack Barry Stays Home and May be Out for Season

SECOND BASEMAN JACK BARRY was the Red Sox's only stay-at-home. His broken finger means he will be useless for work for two or three weeks; in fact, it is feared he may not get into the game again this season.

Barry's loss is a tremendous one to the champions. He is easily the heavy man of the Carrigan troupe; the keystone of its defence and a dangerous batsman in the pinch, even though he is having trouble keeping his usual average over .300.

Jack states he does not know exactly how soon he will be able to re-don his spangles and resume work on the middle station. He is in high hopes of being on duty about September 15 or 20, but the chances are practically even the Hose must fight it out the rest of the way without their reliable second-sacker and field leader.

LARRY DOYLE SIGNS TO PLAY WITH CUBS

Chicago, Sept. 1.—Larry Doyle, traded by the New York titants to the Cubs for Jack Pfeister and Heinie Zimmerman, signed a three-year contract, after holding out several days. It is said Doyle will receive $7,500 a year from the Cubs. Doyle will join the Cubs at St. Louis today and get into the game at once.

"BEATRICE FAIRFAX"

Novelized From the Great Film Play
By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

By Beatrice Fairfax
(Novelized from the scenario of Basil Dickey and produced in motion pictures by Wharton Inc. Studios for the International Film Service.)
(Copyright, 1916, International News Service.)

I DREAMED a minute of the primitive, world-wide causes which had made Anna Cortez' plans miscarry—and then I went on with her letter. . . .

"That I did not leave on the launch you know," wrote Anna Cortez. "Perhaps you even think you know why. But you are wrong. For the one thing you cannot know until I tell you is this: Anna Cortez is soft-hearted like you!

"And because she is soft-hearted, she tells you this story. You are a woman—and you must pine to know the reason for those things which you saw in my apartment. Read on.

"We made our plans—and then we carried them out, very cleverly, I think. A great limousine was placed at our disposal. Satsu disguised himself in the uniform of a chauffeur; goggles and silk wind mask covered his face. The Motherland protects her children when they perform her missions.

"He brought the car to my door as if he were servant and I employer. There was no time to waste, so we drove like mad out over the road. At last we came to a bend of the road. There was no one in sight. Satsu went forward to reconnoitre, and then he returned to complete our arrangements.

"With a wrench, he loosened the hub-cap from one of the wheels, until the wheel was sure to come off with a few more hundred yards of driving. Next he put oil on the license plates and threw dust upon them so it would appear he had come from a great distance.

"Then he returned to the wheel, and he drove slowly around the curve which led to the house we had come to rob.

"Slowly and carefully Satsu drove around the curve, and just as we got to the road outside the house where Number Five had sent us, Satsu put on a little burst of speed, and the loosened wheel came off. The car dropped to the side of the road, and I leaped to the ground as though I had fallen. But first I tore my forehead with my finger nails. I suppose I shall always bear the scar on my brow. I do not care. There are deeper scars on my heart.

"After I had fallen, Satsu leaped from the car and stooped over me, then he shouted for help. And, presently from the house there came the man we were seeking.

The Good Samaritan

"The good Samaritan, poor fool, came out, and led us into his home. I watched through my eye lashes.

"He helped Satsu carry me within and lay me on the couch, and then in a moment I was conscious and our host unconscious. For Satsu struck him a sharp blow across the back of the neck. The impact of the edge of his hand did its work quickly, and Brayton—the man we had come to despoil—fell in a heap at the side of the couch. A moment later we had disposed of his maid. Satsu gagged her with my handkerchief, and her hands and feet we tied with a curtain cord. Then we went into the inner room to search for that which we had been sent to take.

"On the table before us lay an envelope addressed to 'Brigadier-General Haynes, Washington, D. C.'

"Satsu seized upon the envelope and tore it open. It contained blue prints of the Brayton rifle sight. Our Motherland needed those blue prints. Knowledge of them might save her a fortune in lives and equipment some day.

"Hako Satsu looked at me and, smiled: 'Comrade, we have done well. Now we must put our car in order and return to your honorable dwelling. And then I have something to tell you.'

They Return to Her Home

"My heart leaped joyously. I might have spared myself that.

"Again we drove desperately, for there was indeed need of haste.

"We passed very few cars. I remember only one. A despicable little mass of metal which cow-

Beatrice Fairfax climbs the fire escape in her search for Mimosa San and the two plotters.

ered to the side of the road to let us go on. I leaned forward to see if one of our people might be driving that car.

"That, I suppose, was the beginning of the end for me. But what does it matter? For the end was foredoomed because I have a tender heart, and could not take her lover from the doll-faced baby of the tea garden. I meant to! O, yes! I meant to, and I think I might have succeeded.

"There was an extra out. Your paper is clever. It blazoned for all to see how great army secrets had been stolen by a man and woman, and that all ports were closed to them.

"But even your clever paper could not know of the little launch which was waiting for us! We decided to lie hidden in my apartment until dark. And I gloried in the long hours till darkness which would give me my chance to win Hako Satsu.

"We had nothing to do during all those hours but talk. And so it came about that he told me of Mimosa San. He called her his little 'Almond Blossom.' He told me how sweet and gentle she was, and how much she loved him.

"And at last I, poor tender-hearted fool, said to him: 'But Satsu, you need not leave Mimosa San behind, they will take one woman on the launch. They will not care which one of us it may be. Mimosa San shall have my place.'

Her Explanation

"'But the Motherland?' gasped Hako Satsu.

"I shall work here for the Motherland. She shall work there in my place by your side across the sea—where I am not going—not going now that I know of Mimosa San and your love for her. So I spoke. But I knew all the while that it was not so. That she could never do the work I might have done.

"Your government will not take me, Senorita Fairfax. A Cortez y Teixa does not go to the cell where perhaps the night before a common thief was housed. I am free—I shall remain free.

"Is there any message you can send me—any work you can give me that shall say you think perhaps I was justified? I know I was, but I am lonely—and I have lost everything: the award for my work, the work itself, and even perhaps—life.

"The Motherland lies in wait and passes sentence on those who fail her. I am lonely. Have you any word for me? Remember I might have taken Mimosa San's lover, and I did not steal him. The plans I took—but I am no love thief.

"What have you to say to 'ANNA CORTEZ Y TEIXA?'

"If I confess that there were tears in my eyes, will any think the worse for me?

The next day and for all the days for a week following this little note was appended to "Advice to the Lovelorn":

"A Chance for Anna."

"If Anna will communicate with me, I promise that she shall find America and Americans offering her opportunities and friendships. I sympathize and understand, and I feel that there will be a chance for Anna C. in the field of literature. She explains her mystery sympathetically and clearly. Beatrice Fairfax offers her loyal friendship to a woman who has blundered, but who can retrieve her mistake."

I never heard from Anna Cortez. I have never even had news of her. I often wonder if ever our paths will cross again.

Sometimes I feel that the Motherland exacted from her a heavy penalty for failure. It seems to me that she was a brave and splendid soul who had blundered much, but who retrieved it all when her hour moment came. But when I swung from the fire escape outside of her apartment, none of the sympathy which came to me a day later had a place in my heart.

I caught at the lowest rung of the ladder and pulled myself up gradually from one cross-section of that fire escape to another. What waited for me at the top?

Good Housekeeping Recipes

Good food properly cooked goes far toward insuring health and long years. As much depends on the cooking, however, as on the food itself. The following recipes have been tested and approved by Good Housekeeping Institute, conducted by GOOD HOUSEKEEPING, and are republished here by special arrangement with that publication, the Nation's Greatest Home Magazine.

All measurements are level, standard half-pint measuring cups, tablespoons, and teaspoons being used. Sixteen level tablespoonfuls equal a half-pint. Quantities are sufficient for six people unless otherwise stated. Flour is sifted once before measuring.

Substantial Camp Sandwich

Thinly sliced tomatoes, canned salmon, white bread, butter.

Cut the bread one-quarter inch thick, and spread with butter. On one slice put a layer of the tomatoes salted. Cover this with the salmon minced and then put on the second slice. No other dressing is needed, although a little mayonnaise or boiled dressing may be mixed with the salmon if desired.

Lettuce, Club Style.

1 solid head lettuce.
¼ cupful mayonnaise dressing, scant.
2 tablespoonfuls chili sauce.
2 hard-cooked eggs, chopped.
Crescents of hot toasted, buttered bread.

Break the chili sauce into the mayonnaise. Wash the lettuce thoroughly, dry, and arrange in the shape of a head on a large round platter or in a bowl. Pour the dressing in and around the leaves, sprinkle with the eggs chopped fine, and garnish with the hot toast.

Grandmother's Lettuce.

1 head lettuce.
1 bunch young onions, or
1 small Bermuda onion.
6 slices of bacon.
½ cupful mild vinegar.

Crisp the lettuce as usual, then drain and shred it. Slice the onions very thin. Cut the bacon in tiny pieces and fry it until browned. Arrange the leaves in a bowl, put the onions on top, and when ready to serve add the vinegar to the hot bacon fat and pour over the lettuce and onion.

Ask yourself these questions about your poor complexion

"Why must I endure these unsightly pimples and blotches?"

"How do other girls keep their skins clear and make themselves welcome where I am avoided?"

"Isn't there some way to improve my complexion than will not cost more money and time than I can afford to spend?"

You can give yourself this answer: "I believe the simple, but thorough, daily use of Resinol Soap, aided perhaps by a little Resinol Ointment, will be all you need to restore your unattractive skin to its natural healthy beauty. Don't worry—act!"

Youthful Diplomacy

Mr. Rockefeller delights in relating a story about his son.

When he was a little boy young John came to his father one day and asked him for some money to buy a birthday present for a boy chum.

"I want to give it to him when I get an invitation to his party," he said.

The millionaire happened to be rather vexed that day, and told his son that he could not have any money.

"J. D. Junior" retired somewhat crestfallen, but a little later his father repented of his refusal and told his young hopeful that he would give him some money to buy the birthday present.

"I don't want it now, thank you!" answered little Johnny.

"Why not?" asked the millionaire, in surprise.

"Well, you see," replied Johnny, "when you told me the other day that you couldn't let me have it I went and gave Billy a jolly good licking, so that he wouldn't ask me to his party and I needn't give him a gift!"

A Wonderful Man

There are many kinds of celebrity. When Haydon, the painter, visited Stratford he held forth about Shakespeare to some rustics he met in a wayside inn. They told him that Stratford then contained "another wonderful fellow, one John Cooper."

"Why, sur, I'll tell 'ee. He's lived ninety years in this 'ere town, man and boy, and never had the toothache."

A Girl and a Man

By Virginia Terhune Van de Water
CHAPTER XXV.
Copyright, 1916, by the Star Company.

Perhaps it is true, as so many men affirm, that women are a mass of inconsistencies.

This feminine peculiarity may account for the sub-conscious chagrin that Agnes Morley felt as day after day passed and Philip Hale kept the place that she had ordered him to keep.

So strenuously did he obey her mandates that, unless he and she were brought face to face—as occasionally happened when she was coming in or going out—he appeared unaware of her existence. When they met thus, he would bow stiffly. She had told him that he must treat her as he treated other employes. He exceeded these commands, she noticed.

She could not know how wretched Philip Hale really was. Now that he and Agnes had quarrelled, his resentment of her tone and manner at the time of his last visit to her did not make him care for her less, but added a keen pain to their estrangement.

Besides this, he felt that there had been truth in what she said with regard to the results of his recklessness, and the consciousness of being in the wrong piqued him. What could she have expected of a flesh-and-blood man? She had been unkind—then he would go as far as she demanded, and try to seem to ignore her presence.

He did not acknowledge to himself that he had an idea—common to older men than he—that to seem to ignore a woman increases her desire to be noticed.

Agnes, on her part, decided that Philip could not care much for her or he would not find it so easy to treat her cavalierly. And the recollection that she was not his social equal was like a canker in her mind.

Several weeks slipped by. Mr. Hale's cold sisthance relaxed, and he became less formal in manner. Twice he thanked his secretary for the care and rapidity with which she executed certain orders he gave her.

"You have learned my methods much sooner than I dared hope you would," he observed one day.

SHE THANKS HIM

Her heart did not beat faster as it would once have done at such commendation from Philip's father. She thanked him politely and determined to try harder than ever to please him.

When Mr. Hale had left the office that noon, Joe came in.

"Annie Rooney wants to know if you're going out to lunch soon," he said. "She's starting now, and she'll meet you at the usual eating place."

"Very well," Agnes told him, "I will meet her there."

But when she reached the street, Annie was waiting for her in the doorway of the office building. Agnes started as she saw that Philip Hale was standing there talking to her, his hat in his hand. He did not smile as Agnes came toward the pair, but, with a grave bow, went on out of the building.

Annie greeted her, all smiles. "Well," she said, "he sure does treat a girl like a real gentleman ought to, doesn't he?"

"He seems to," Agnes agreed with well-feigned indifference.

"He stopped to ask me about some copying I had to do, and that his father told him to get from me. Gee! If I could only have the job as his stenographer I'd be thrilled silly!"

"Does he need a regular stenographer?" Agnes asked. "I should think that with all the girls there in the office he could always get some one of them to do his work for him."

"Of course he can!" Annie admitted rather tartly. "I didn't say I was going to be his stenographer—I just said I'd like to be. You needn't take me up so sharp."

"I did not mean to take you up sharply," Agnes apologized. "Excuse me, please."

"Oh, that's all right," Annie rejoined, graciously. "By the way, I don't ever see him and you talking any more. Why not?"

"Because we have no reason to talk," Agnes replied, coldly. "I am his father's secretary, not his."

PRAISE FOR PHIL

"Well, he often speaks to me when he passes by me, and it's always in a pleasant tone, too. It's never 'Annie,' but always 'Miss Rooney'—just as if I was as good as he is."

"As you are," Agnes said involuntarily. With each minute that passed she was hardening her heart against Philip Hale.

"Right you are, kid!" Annie agreed. "I'm glad to see you're getting some instead of talking that high-brow junk that you handed out when I first mentioned him to you. Well, here we are—let's go in and feed our faces."

That afternoon Agnes had just entered Mr. Hale's private office to resume work, when her employer's telephone rang. As she answered it she recognized Philip's voice on the wire, asking for his father.

"He is not in," she told him.

"Kindly say to him, please, that the man upon whom I was to call at his place of business on Front street left word there for me that he could meet me uptown at 4 o'clock. I will, therefore, attend to other matters before going uptown and will not be back at the office today. May I trouble you to deliver that message? Thank you. Goodby!"

"Not a personal word," Agnes mused as she hung up the receiver. "There was no reason why he might not have called me by name or spoken some little word of friendliness. Nobody would have been any the wiser. Well—never mind! I don't care!"

But her heart was suddenly sore and a lump was in her throat.

A sound of the office door opening made her turn around. Mr. Bainbridge was entering the room. He closed the door behind him before he spoke. Then he came toward her, a kind smile on his face.

To Be Continued.

Anecdotes of the Famous

Joseph Holbrooke, the English composer, was about to embark on an Atlantic liner on his return to England when he was accosted by a lady who said timidly:

"I'm so sorry you did not meet my son."

"Why?" asked Mr. Holbrooke.

"Oh, he's so wonderful, so clever, a marvellous composer! But, of course he is keeping his works back at present."

"Back?" exclaimed Holbrooke, "I've always tried to bring mine forward."

"You? Yes; it's different. But don't you think my boy is right in keeping his back?"

"Madam, I do," replied Mr. Holbrooke; "and, what is more, I am pretty confident that in his efforts he will have the hearty co-operation of the public, too."

Here is a story told by John Murray, the publisher, about Darwin:

"He came to my father," said Mr. Murray, "and said: Mr. Murray, I have brought a manuscript. It has cost me five years' hard work and has interested me, but I cannot think the public will take much interest in it.' My father said: 'I like to hear an author talk like that. What is the subject of your book?' 'Earthworms,' replied Darwin. That book went through five editions in about as many months."

* * *

Sir Thomas Boor Crosby, who became Lord Mayor of London when he was over eighty-one, held some interesting views on the art of keeping young—maxims founded on his experiences as a doctor.

Take care of your arteries," was his favorite prescription for "old age pills." "A man is as old as his arteries," he once said. "If they degenerate, you get an effusion of blood on the brain and elsewhere and crack.

"To take care of your arteries go to bed early. One thing I insist upon, and that is 'early to bed.' Whenever possible I always get a long night's rest. I eat as little meat as possible. And I am a great believer in plenty of exercise, although my work has prevented me taking as much of this as I should have liked.

"But work does not hurt anybody; on the contrary, it keep them well. I have never adopted any particular regimen. I take a glass of wine. I smoke a cigar. I eat what is put before me—but always in moderation. Therefore, I should say that temperance is the thing to enable a man to make the best of his life."

Nerves Unstrung? Eat Fish and Fat.

Dr. Andrew Wilson explains in most amusing Boston AMERICAN why these foods are especially for those whose nerves are on the ragged edge.

Do You Know That—

It has been estimated that the progeny from a single pair of rabbits, if allowed to breed unchecked, number nearly twelve millions in three years.

In the tropics there is a little mimosa which is so sensitive that on being shaken or touched it immediately closes up the dainty fronds of its little leaves and they remain tightly closed until their disturber has passed.

Cake? No Powder? No Pure essence of soap in flakes!

What Lux is Not

Lux is not a cake of soap, not a chipped soap, not a soap powder, but pure essence of soap in thin transparent flakes.

Even in looks it is not like anything you have ever seen.

Why soap for fine laundering should be in flakes

In flake form, Lux can be kept pure, concentrated soap. In this form there is no need for any air, any moisture, or any kind of "filler" which has no cleansing value. Lux contains more real soap than five times its weight in ordinary soaps, soap chips or soap powders.

These flakes melt the moment you throw them into hot water, and make an instant lather which dissolves dirt without rubbing. They are so completely soluble that not the slightest trace of soap is left in the garment to yellow it. Lux can't injure anything that water alone won't injure.

Nothing like it ever before been made

The process by which Lux is made is used only for Lux—the very machinery which "flakes" the soap is patented and controlled by the manufacturers of Lux.

Get a ten cent package from your grocer or department store today and try it yourself.

LATEST NEWS OF THE STOCK MARKET

Irregularity in prices developed in the markets after a strong opening, with more stocks showing losses than gains at noon. The volume of business transacted also lessened.

Continued uncertainty as to the railroad strike situation exerted the most potent influence, and traders generally were inclined to wait definited action by Congress.

New high records were made in New York by Inspiration at 59, Kelley-Springfield Tire at 83¼ and Marine preferred at 106⅝, the latter coming after 12 o'clock.

Motor stocks in New York were weak. Most interest was attached to strength of Steel common, which sold, ex the regular and extra dividend amounting to 2¼ per cent., at 96½ at noon.

American Beet Sugar, Chino, Anaconda and Baldwin Locomotive all showed gains of a point or more at the opening, but receded.

The Boston market, after a strong opening, was weak at noon. Among losses were Boston & Maine ¼, United Fruit 1¼, Old Dominion ¼, St. Mary's ⅛ and Allouez 1½. Tamarack was up ½.

The Boston Curb was active during the second hour, with prices irregular.

COURT CONDEMNS ROXBURY MAN

"You are low and contemptible, and your excuse is not worthy of consideration in any court," said Judge Abbot in the Waltham court today to Henry Hanna of Roxbury. Hanna told the court that he refused to contribute toward the support of his seventy-nine year old mother because he believed his father ought to support her.

Hanna was ordered to contribute $3 per week to his mother's support and appealed.

MEXICO BOARD MEETS FIRST IN NEW YORK

By International News Service.

Washington, Sept. 1.—All arrangements for the meetings of the American-Mexican commissioners to settle the points at issue between the two republics were completed today. The commission will meet Monday afternoon at the Biltmore Hotel, New York, merely to confirm the appointment of minor officials and clerks to the commissions, and to arrange for the first of the regular series of meetings in Portsmouth, N. H.

The President's yacht, the Mayflower, will take the commissioners on board at New York late Monday night and steam directly to Portsmouth. It practically is agreed that the first meeting at Portsmouth shall be Wednesday, September 6.

In accordance with the desire of the government, the question of the withdrawal of the American troops from Mexican territory will be first discussed by the commissions. The fact that General Funston's recommendation that the troops be withdrawn was allowed to become known has greatly weakened the American position in the discussion of the first phase of the Mexican question. Officials admit State and War Department chiefs expressed the opinion that, in view of all the circumstances, it is probable that an order withdrawing General Pershing's expedition from Mexican soil would be agreed upon not later than September 10.

30 HORSES SAVED IN SPRINGFIELD FIRE

Springfield, Sept. 1.—Thirty horses were barely saved in a fire which early today swept the brick block at Nos. 25 29 Stockbridge street. The building was occupied by the A. Lazarus Livery Company, the Springfield Sheet Metal Works and the Connecticut Valley Screen Company. The origin of the fire is unknown and the loss will be several thousand dollars.

Painter Killed by Fall.

Frank Eberts, thirty-four years old, No. 29 Circuit street, Melrose, while painting a house on Wyoming avenue, near the corner of Waverley place, Melrose, fell off a staging and sustained a broken neck. He died instantly.

Pianos and Musical Instruments.

YOU CAN PLAY THIS PIANO

Even if you do not know the first thing about music, you can play the Autopiano. You can play popular airs, classics, operas, or dance music and it will sound like the work of an accomplished musician.

The Autopiano is played the same as an ordinary piano—or by inserting a roll of music and using the pedals. It is the acme of perfection and heads the world's procession in piano-making.

Public Ownership of Railroads Necessary to National Safety

THE railroads should all be owned and operated by the nation.

The present dispute and threatened strike show that.

The American people cannot afford to have the WHOLE business of the whole country disrupted while the managers of railroads and the chiefs of railroad labor unions are fighting over hours and wages.

If this were a matter which affected only the railroad owners and the railroad employes, the rest of us might look on and cheer or hiss as we felt disposed.

But this is a matter which directly, inevitably and powerfully affects EVERYBODY and everybody's BUSINESS AND EMPLOYMENT.

Both the men who manage railroads and the men who manage railroad employes' unions are much too prone to forget that.

At present we limp along under a makeshift, hybrid system of governmental control and interference with railroads which is an utter failure when such an emergency as this arises to threaten disaster to the whole country.

The Interstate Commerce Commission and the forty-eight independent State Railway Commissions can and do fix a limit of EARNINGS which the railroads cannot exceed. But none of them has any power at all to limit the EXPENSES to which the railroads may be put by concerted action of those from whom the railroads must buy such vitally necessary commodities as fuel, steel rails, cars, locomotives and labor.

Now, it is evident that any business whose EARNINGS are limited by Government supervisors and whose FORCED COSTS are not and cannot be limited by the same supervisors will not long tempt investors, and will have attractions only for stock gamblers.

And this is precisely the dangerous situation which Government CONTROL without Government OWNERSHIP AND OPERATION, has brought about.

Even if there should be no strike, the time is not far off when a worse disaster will occur—that is, THE INABILITY of THE RAILROADS TO HAUL THE COUNTRY'S TOTAL PRODUCTION TO MARKET.

The production of manufactures and agricultural stuffs in this country increases at the rate of about 15 per cent per annum.

If the truckage and rolling stock and terminal freight facilities of the roads do not keep up with this increase, it is only a matter of time when a considerable margin of manufactured goods and a considerable margin of farm stuffs cannot be hauled to market.

And that will induce the most disastrous panic we have had in half a century; for it is always the MARGIN OF UNSOLD PRODUCTION which fixes the prices of products in the producers' hands; and it is the shortage of the untransported products in the ultimate markets which makes dear the prices of products to the final consumer.

The certain result of a breakdown in our national system of railroad haulage will be profitless farms, closed factories, hundreds of thousands of idle men and business disaster on a huge scale.

Now, since we cannot go back to unrestricted private ownership, and since this HALF-WAY experiment of Government control is an apparent failure, there is nothing left to do but to try ENTIRE GOVERNMENT CONTROL—by which we mean Government ownership and operation of every mile of railway in the United States.

It is quite likely that neither freight nor passenger rates would be any lower under Government ownership than they are now, and there are doubtless some reasonable objections to that system.

But, nevertheless, we require above everything else A GUARANTEE OF STABILITY AND SAFETY FOR THE NATION'S TRADE AND PRODUCTION, and the ONLY GUARANTEE upon which we can all rely is the ownership and operation of the means of transportation by the whole people.

The question is not so much one of economy in freight charges as of national safety and national welfare.

Please Help the Floating Hospital

THE good work of the Boston Floating Hospital is still going on. But with increasing demands upon it, due to the spreading knowledge of the good it does, comes an increasing demand for more and more help from the public.

The Boston Floating Hospital is a steamboat, equipped as a hospital, which takes the little children of the poor into the harbor where it is cool and there ministers unto them according to their necessities. This hospital is now carrying both night and day more than one hundred sick children and was obliged to turn away eighty-four babies because its income did not allow it to furnish the equipment necessary for their care. It needs this year $17,500 more than the regular income to meet its expenses.

This is a year of great American prosperity. Nearly everybody is earning more than they ever earned before. Surely it will not be difficult to raise $17,500 for sick children in this community? If everybody who reads this editorial would give just a little, perhaps the price of the next baseball game, or the next four cigars, or the next four drinks, all the sick babies in Boston could easily be carried on a dozen floating hospitals, and they would be the best equipped in the world.

Infantile Paralysis and the Fake Cure

By Woods Hutchinson, M. D.

The World's Best Known Writer on Medical Subjects.

ANOTHER reason why free hospital treatment is most vitally important and necessary in infantile paralysis is that the improvement is often so pitifully slow and the results of treatment so painfully long in showing themselves clearly that the parents are apt to become discouraged and either give up treatment altogether, on account of the steady drain of expense upon their slender incomes, or turn to the quack and the fraudulent remedy. One would really have thought that if there was any spark of decency and shame left in these wolves and leeches at least the shrunken limbs of little crippled babies would have been safe from their ghoulish greed. But there is no such word as "shame" in their lexicon, and already they are flocking to the prey. The stunned and stricken parents of the poor little cripples are already being deluged through the list of addresses published daily in the papers with greedy and lying circulars promising perfect cures of every case, no matter how severe, by radium plasters, electric belts, bottled X-rays, condensed sunlight, concentrated moonshine, at five to fifty dollars per plaster or belt, or "course" of bottles, payable in advance; no checks or postal orders received. The last apparently singular scruple for the simple but sufficient reason that Uncle Sam has been getting most unaccountably restive of late about being made a party to fraud and has organized a special detective service to make it distinctly uncomfortable for all who attempt to "work" him in this way.

Even physicians, health officers, nurses and hospital officials are finding in their mails impudent letters from vultures of this description, offering to sell them the secret of a sure cure for any case of infantile paralysis, or to send samples for trial, on condition that they be given a commission on each case treated.

One particularly grotesque and farcical specimen of these sure cures is a plaster, looking like ordinary surgeon's plaster or old-fashioned porus plaster, claimed to be "charged with radium ores," which is guaranteed to cure any case of any sort of paralysis, infantile or otherwise, or money refunded, simply by being pasted over the right or the left eye-brow, according to the side on which the paralysis exists, or if it is on both sides, spread blister-fashion across the nape of the neck. The only thing, of course, which this preposterous bluster can be relied upon to draw is the five dollars from the pockets of the parents of its victim, which its high-minded promoters insist upon having in hand before they send out a single square inch of the priceless remedy. Bigbluck, with his pound of flesh, was a Red Cross nurse compared with these gentry.

Yet no one can blame the poor, and often ignorant, parents of the great mass of these little paralytics for lending an ear to these golden promises and preposterous claims. They can see that their little one has been seriously ill, but he has entirely recovered from his sickness, the fever has left him, there is no pain or swelling, or even redness, in the lame leg or arm, he has a good appetite and is beginning to grow taller and heavier, and yet his leg doesn't get any better. If they go to a competent, conscientious doctor, whether private or hospital, he can give them little encouragement, no positive promise of cure, and only the mere probability of the limb being a little stronger in six months or a year or two years.

What can be expected but the conclusion on their part that there is something mysterious about the case, something the doctor doesn't understand—surely a healthy child ought to outgrow a little lameness like that! Then comes the fakir with his glowing promises, his glorious hope of swift and sure cure, his flatulent enthusiasm and bouncing self-confidence, just exactly everything that the doctor failed to be, and they leap for the magic gold at the foot of the rainbow.

The Chamber of Commerce to the Railroad Men: Give Your Congressmen Time!

THE Boston Chamber of Commerce has requested the New England representatives of the railroad brotherhoods to postpone the issuing of a strike order until Congress can deal deliberately with the questions arising out of the dispute between the railroad men and their employers.

This is an entirely REASONABLE request.

It is a request in the interest of the men, who must have public opinion with them if they are going to "appeal to the last reason of kings," the arbitrament of force.

Labor organizations have won their contests, when they have been won, entirely through the support of PUBLIC OPINION. There is not on record a successful strike of any proportions in which the public did not favor, and STRONGLY favor, the strikers.

The question of tactics is, therefore, important to the railroad men. They can ruin the BEST cause by arbitrary and unreasonable precipitation of the issue.

While there is hope of a PEACEFUL settlement, it would be jeopardizing favorable public opinion to plunge this country from the height of its present extraordinary prosperity into the depths of what would be practically civil war in a time of peace.

The President has appealed to Congress, proposing terms of settlement satisfactory to the leaders of the railroad brotherhoods. The law which the President recommends is a RADICAL departure from the present legal status of railroads and their employes.

It will be entirely reasonable for Congress to take time to deliberate, not only upon the POLICY of the proposed change, but upon the DETAILS of it.

President Wilson takes the ground that the men ought to have an eight-hour day. Our readers are familiar with the attitude of the AMERICAN concerning that reform.

By the terms of settlement which the President now has recommended, the men who operate our railroad trains may get the eight-hour day without a strike; but they cannot expect Congress to act with undue haste. IT IS ONLY REASONABLE TO GIVE CONGRESS TIME TO DETERMINE UPON BOTH THE POLICY AND ITS DETAILS.

New Gravitation Theory Is That Waves in Ether Push All Bodies Together

By Garrett P. Serviss

THE mystery of mysteries in science is the attraction of gravitation—that very force of nature that is the most familiar to us all!

It seems strange that the most familiar thing in the world should be, at the same time, the most inexplicable—but so it is.

In order to see clearly wherein the mystery consists, let us first consider what gravitation appears to be. It is gravitation that gives the property of weight to all bodies. If there were no gravitation, we could float like thistledown, and infinitely better than thistledowns; for they, too, are finally brought down by gravitation.

It is gravitation that brings a cannon ball eventually to the earth, no matter how swiftly it may be projected. The faster it starts the farther it will go, but during every second of its flight it drops the same distance vertically toward the earth, whether the speed imparted to it by the powder is 500 or 3,000 feet per second. Gravitation acts on a moving body exactly as well as on one at rest.

It is gravitation that curbs the motion of the moon and keeps it in an orbit of which the earth is the active focus.

So, too, it is gravitation that governs the earth in its motion around the sun, preventing it from flying away into boundless space. Astronomy shows that gravitation acts between all the planets and all the stars and controls their motions with respect to one another.

Now this mysterious force appears to be an attraction, as if there were elastic cords connecting all the bodies in space and tending to draw them together. But space, as far as our senses can detect, is empty. There are no elastic cords and no physical connections whatever between astronomical bodies, or between a flying stone, or cannon ball, and the earth. How, then, can there be an attraction? In order that a body may be attracted or drawn, there must be something to draw it. Gravitation has a trick, but completely hides from us the mechanism through which it acts. We can discover no mechanism at all.

When an unfortunate aeroplanist drops from his machine at a height of a thousand feet, he begins at once to fall toward the earth as if it were pulling him; but how can it pull if it has nothing to pull with? You may think at first sight that it is the air which acts as an intermediary; but that is not so, because the earth and the moon "pull" upon one another with a force equal to the strength of a steel cable five hundred miles in diameter; but there is no air, and no other tangible thing in the open space, 240,000 miles across, that gaps between the moon and the earth.

Then gravitation exerts the same force at every instant. No matter how fast the falling aeronaut may be descending at any moment, gravitation will keep on adding speed as if he had just started. Disregarding the slight retardation produced by the resistance of the air, he will fall 16 feet in the first second, 48 feet in the second second, 80 feet in the third second, gaining 32 feet in his velocity during every second after the first.

From a height of 1,000 feet he will come down in about 8 seconds, and will strike the ground with a velocity of about 256 feet per second. From a height of 10,000 feet he would fall in about 25 seconds, and would strike with a velocity of 400 feet per second.

The same kind of calculation can be applied to the gravitation between the earth and the moon. If the moon were not in motion across the direction of the earth's "pull" it would fall to the earth in about 116 hours.

Now, to return to the mystery, how is this force exerted? Is it really a pull as it seems to be? The answer to which science is tending is that instead of being a pull, gravitation is a push; in other words, that the falling aeronaut is pushed toward the ground and the moon is pushed toward the earth.

On the face of it one might think that nothing was gained by this theory, because it seems as impossible that a push should be exerted without a tangible connection as a pull. But the clew is found in the supposed properties of that invisible, intangible, all-pervading medium called the ether.

This, to be sure, is explaining one mystery by another, for we know nothing about the ether except that it conveys the waves of light and electricity, but, at any rate, it affords a conceivable explanation of gravitation. I have no space to go into this explanation, which has recently been developed by Dr. Charles F. Brush, but an idea of its nature may be formed from the statement that it regards the ether as being filled with a peculiar form of waves, and that material bodies may intercept these waves in such a way as to be pushed toward one another on account of the diminished effect of the ether waves in the space between the bodies.
